LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 5, 1900 A SUCCESSFUL AFFAIR.

The Tea and Lecture at Queen St.
Methodist Church Last Evening
Was Well Attended.

Was Well Attended.

About two hundred people gathered in the Queen st. church last evening to partake of the good things provided by the Iadies and enjoy a talk from their old and popular pastor, Rev. G. W. Dewey, of Aucra. No doubt the sudden drop in temperature remarked wear from attending. From six vented many from attending. From six o'clock till eight the ladies found their time fully occupied in supplying the wants of the inner man, and all agreed that the cakes, pies, etc., were first-class, and that the Queen-st, ladies are all good cooks. When eight o'clock arrived averybody were a pleasant smile, the result of a satisfactory

Mr. Dewey was hurried to the church as Mr. Dawey was nurried to the obstruct as on as the eight o'slock train came in, and experienced considerable delay in the basement of the church, where a number of his cld parishoners had gatbered to meet him. His arm became so warm because of much handshaking that he found it necessary to remove his coat, and after a brave struggle escaped through a rear door and found his way upstairs, where a large crowd awaited

Rev. Mr. Dewey bogan his address by stating that he did not come to lecture, but just to give a plain little talk on the subject, "To Business." In his humorous way he carried the audience with him as he went on to describe the firm he represented, and entreated his hearers to invest their faith, prayers and talents in this great Company. The returns, he guaranteed, would be greater than the returns from any earthly firm, and investments in earnest prayer could no il. He began investing twenty years ago, and his principle had increased every year. The Company had used him in an honorable way, and he could honestly recommend it to everybody wishing to invest. The speaker then went back to the time when he was paster of the Queen-st. shurch He remembered when only a dozen follow-ers would gather in the class-room for service, but they invested their prayers, and the returns had been far beyond expectat-ions. They had increased in numbers and strength, and prosper held away, white nine years ago scarcely a parishioner owned the roof he lived under. His congregation stood by him in those dark hours, when not a streak of light could be seen in the future; they invested their all, and the result was certain. Revival meetings were held, and new members were added to their number, and now he could look into the faces of old and tried followers, and rejoice with them to know that the returns of faith had in creased an hundred-fold.

The rev. gentleman next referred to the coming elections. Men were wanted now who were rot afraid to stand by their reliwho were not afraid to stand by their religion. Some of the best political leaders are honest, God fearing men, but some are not. Men who were not at all fitted for public life, were to-day filling responsible positions, and others who would make the positions, and others who wore gilted with greater power of thought and speech were remaining silent, and yet belonging on the great work.

spoke of sirging as a great power. Some people could sing and do more good than a dozen sermons, but others became "profesdozen sermons, but others become "professionals," and their voices sounded as if they had a hot potato or a turnip in their months
People should train their voices, and practise singing, because everybody would sing in heaven and we should prepare ourselves on earth. We can, he said, use every talent we have in some way to increase it and help-

Growing List of Those Who Testify to Kidney Pills in Montreal

Montreal, Jan. 2nd—The list of those who have received henefit from the great medicine, Jap. 2dd. Kidney Pills, is steadily growing in this city. Since Robert Thompson's name was published, Mr. M. Mullin, of 4 Elginstreet, has stepped froward and submitted his lestimory. His case was Rheumatism, which though now generally recognized as a kidney disease is not always treated as such. People waste a lot of money trying to drive rheumatism from the system. If they would all follow Mr. Mullin's example they would all follow Mr. Mullin's example they would all follow for Mullin's example they would all follow for Mullin's example they and could get nothing for some time and could get nothing to cure me until I used Dodt's Kidney Pills. ### How One Gets Bilious.

A sluggish liver fails to filter the bile from the blood, and when the poi-sonous matter goes through the body in the circulation, the whole system is tainted and deranged. This is called billousness and can be cured by Dr. A. W. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which act directly on the liver, making it healthy and active. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box. —In Newark, N.Y., one of the churches has added greatly to its popularity by allowing three of the prettiest girle in the congregation to act as ushers. The young ladies do their work well and they have no trouble in seating the congregation swiftly and noiselessly. Young men like the church and there is always a large sprinkling of this element, which is not always a castily drawn to a place of worship. Girl ushers are to be introduced in some of the New York churches.

A vote of thanks to Rev. Mr. Dowey was moved by Mr. Staples and seconded by Mr. Shannon, to which the rev. gentleman replied in fitting words. He then sang a patrioth song, assisted by Mrs. Dewey. Miss G. Fee also sang "Watch While I Sleep," and Miss C. Walters sang "When the Moon goes Driving up the Sky," Mr. Dowey was then forced to endure another ordeal of hand shaking, after which the evening came to an enjoyable close. The proceeds eclipsed these of former years, over $40 being cleared. This smount will be appropriated towards the S.S. library fund.

Dec. 18.—Two of the Yorktown's captured crew, Ryders and Woosbury, have been re-captured and now are safe in American hands. Seven of the fourteen, captured with Lieut. Gillmore, were last heard of Nov. 20 near Vigan. The following dispatch from Admiral Watson at Manila, explains the fate of the remaining seven, of whom four were killed.

"Seamate Ryders, of the Yorktown, captured at Baler, re-captured with Woodbury by calvalry at Bayombong, has reported here on the flagship. Both were wounded when Gillmore was taken and left behind. McDonald, Dillon and Morrissey were killed. Ryders, Woodbury and Venville were wounded, the latter was doing well at Baler on June 15. I expect Woodbury tomorrow. The wounded were not cared for by the insurgents and their wounds recovered under their personal cared. Woodbury and Ryders walked nearly to Manila."

Charles M. Morrissey, the young man mentioned in the dispatch, was a former resident of Lincoln, a son of John M. Morrissey, a grain dealer, who now lives at at 1544 O. Street. The young man was but eighteen years of age last February.

At one time he attended the Lincoln high school and would have graduated from there in a few months had he not stopped in January, 1897. He wen't to work in the American Exchange Notional bank of this city. Shortly afterword he wen't to Butte, Montona. Be had been working in Clark's bank at Butte as assistant teler for about six months when he decided to enlist in the United States navy.

clarks bank at Butte as assistant telecter for about six months when he decided to enlist in the United States navy.

The journey to San Francisco was soom made, and on July 15, 1893, he calisted in the United States service and was assigned to the Yorktown. The last his family heard from him was in a letter dated April 5th, 1899, in which he detailed some of the experiences he had gone through in the Philippines. One week later, he together with fourteen other members of the Yorktown crew came in contact with a body of Filipinos.

There has been some doubt concerning the young man's fate from that time to the present. All sort of reports have been circulated in the city, but the dispatch to-day is the first authentic information to reach Lincoln concerning him since his contact with the Filipinos.

The letters young Morrissey sent home from time to time gave accounts of two skirmishes in which he had participated previous to his final experience. He had seen some fighting at Baylor. He together with several others of the crew were engaged in getting off several launches when a large body of naives came running down to the bank and fired on them. The ship was under Filipino fire at another time, when approaching an old deserted steamer that had drifted aground, the natives from the beach fired on the Yorktown, but without ony serious results. A few broadsides from the ship scattered the combative Filipinos.

Charles Morrissey was next to the eldest in a family of seven children.

—Reports vary as to the severity of Friday night's temperature, but evidence goes to show that it was a "corker." Mr. Reall's official registering machine shewed 13 degree below zerof a reliable down-town thermometer registered 20 degs, and others varied from 16 to 20. At Haliburton the mercury dropped to 23 below; at Port Hope, 36.

Theo years ago a Brown county farmer gave his daughter two chickens and promised to feed the increase for four years, provided she would take care of them. He says she has 861 in the bank and has 200 chekens that he will have to feed this winter. He also s-ys that at the end of four years, she will own the form and will be charging him rent for living on it.
—Really, writers should have some consideration for the poor editor. We were compelled to refuse half-q-dozen communications last Saturday, for and against the Waterworks and Railway pehemes—because if would have been utterly impossible to put them in type or provide space of them, and we dare not insert some and refuse others. If they had been handed in the day previous according to rule, all would have appeared.

FRIED ONIONS.

Indirectly Cavsed the Death of the World's Greatest General

It is a mater of history that Napoleon was a gourmand, an inordinate lover of the good things of the table, and history further records that his favorite dish was fried onions; his death from cancer of stomach it is claimed also, was probably caused from his excessive indulgence of this fondness for the odorous vegetable.

The onion is undoubtedly a wholesome article of food, in fact has many medicinal qualities of value, but it would be difficult to find a more indigestible article than fried onions, and to many people they are simply poison, but the onion does not stand alone in this respect. Any article of food that is not thoroughly, digested becomes a source of disease and discomfort whether it be fried onions or beef steak.

The reason why wholesome food is, not promptly digested is heaven.

becomes a source of diseass and discomfort whether it be fried onions or beef steak.

The reason why wholesome food is not promptly digested is because the stomach lacks some important element of digestion, some stomachs lack peptone, others are deficient in gastine juice, still others lack Hydro chloricacid.

The one thing necessary to do in any case of poor digestion is to supply those elements of digestion which the stomach lacks, and nothing does this so thoroughly and safely as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Dr. Richardson in writing a thesis on the treatment of dyspepsia and indigestion, closes his remarks by saying, "for those suffering from acid dyspepsia, shown by sour, watery risings, or for flatulent dyspepsia, shown by gas on the stomach, causing heart trouble and difficult treathing, as well as for all other forms of stomach trouble, the safest treatment is to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal. I advise them because they contain no harmful drugs, but are composed of valuable digestives, which act promptly upon the food eaten. I never knew a case of indigestion or even throuic dyspepsia which Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets would not reach."

Cheap cathartic medicines claiming to cure dystepsia and indigestion can have no effect whatever in actively digesting the food and to call any cathartic medicine a cure for indigestion is a misnomer.

Every druggist in the United States and Canada sells Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and they are not only the safest and most successful but the most scientific of any treatment for indigestion and stomach troubles.

An Old L. C. I. Student

Some of the most prominent citizens, as well as the old students, of the town of Lindsay, were attracted by a very interesting article in last Saturday's Globe relating to the marriage of Dr. J. R. Hay to Miss Emeline Clarke, of Toronto. Dr. Hay, or more familiarly known among our boys as "Jack" Hay, graduated with high honors at Detroit University a few years ago, and has practised since that time at Pewano, Michigan, with more than ordinary success. On the evening of the marriage—Doc. 27th—Dr. Hay and his bride paid a visit to his parenta, Mrs. John Hay, of Pleasant Foint, where they remained as guests till New Year's morning, when they left for their new home in Pewano The Post joins with their many friends in wishing them a long, happy and successful future.

Presentation to Mr. J. D. Flavelle.

On Saturday last, at the close of the lay's work, a very pleasing incident took place at the office of the Sadler, Dundas & Flavelle Milling Co. The warmest feelings have always existed between the men and Mr. J. D. Fla-velle, the manager of the Company, and as a mark of their respect and F." on the front case, watch, handsomely engraved with the and on the inside of the back case, "Presented to J. D. Flavelle by his Employees, Jan. 1st, 1960."

The presentation was made on behalf of the men by Mr. Robert Miller, head miller, in a neat little speech in which he voiced the sentiments of regard held by every one in the employment of the Company for Mr. Flavelle. He expressed the hope that their future relations would be as pleasant as those of the past, and closed by wishing Mr. Flavelie the compliments of the season.

Mr. Flavelje, in reply, expressed himself as highly delighted with the sentiments expressed by Mr. Miller on behalf of the men, and hoped that nothing would transpire to mar the friendly feelings that had always existed between himself and his working staff. He thanked them for their handsome present, and wished them all the compliments of the senson.

The men then sang "For he's a jolly good fellow," and with three chears and a tiger" for Mr. Flavelle the proceedings closed.

The Historical Diary for the year is of particular interest, giving in an incredibly small space all the principal events of this very important year. A unique feature of the new Almanac is a list of Titled Canadians, with their ranks and orders. This is the first time that such a list has been compiled, and may be considered as the beginning of a Canadian Debrett. Cortainly the Canadian Debrett is growing larger and more complete every year, until it is now difficult to see where it could be added to or improved. The price, however, still remains, as in past years, 25 cents.

tugal must pay to England and the United States an indemnity of $1,500,000 sterling.

England obtained in 1891 from Portugal the right of pre-emption in Delagoa Bay. The cession of Belagoa Bay to England may therefore be expected in March next. It is possible that President Kruger may now declare war on Portugal and attack Delagoa at ones.

In order to prevent any interference by France and Russia, England concluded a second treaty with Germany regarding the complete partition of ta. Portuguese colonial possessions—that is to say, Timor, Geoa, Damaio, Macao and Diu, with 20,000 square miles of territory and a million inhabitants, and all Portuguese territory north of Mozambique, except a strip of land three miles wide for Cecil Rhodes' trans-African railway. For this the German Government will pay Portugal 25,000,000 marks.

A Novement Imminent.

London, Dec. 30,—(5 a.m.)—The latest special despatches from Chieveley Camp hint at some important movement as imminent. This is interpreted to mean that Gen. Buller contemplates a renewal of his attempt to relieve Ladysmith. It is reported by the same despatches that the Boers have now retired to the north bank of the Tugela, being afraid that the swollen river may bar their retreat. They are also moving their laagers near Ladysmith, probably with the intention of putting further pressure on the garrison, which now seems to be suffering pretty heavily from the bombardment.

As this is a matter of supreme importance, I venture to address this line to you in the hope that it may elicit an authoritative statement on the subject."

The Times, commenting editorially upon Lord Roseberry's letter, says: "Too little is known of the selzure for any valid inference saidly, to be

"Too little is known of the selzure for any valid inference safely to be drawn. An occasion might arise when certain food stuffs would be regarded as contraband, while others would not, especially if the latter were intended for non-combatants. There might, for instance, be reasonable grounds for treating canned goods as contraband, and flour as legitimate."

After admitting that it would be unadvisable to "create a precedent which some day wight be invoked against us," the article concludes as follows: "While we fully share the view that no serious change of policy should occur without cogent reasons and ample considerations, we cannot but ask ourselves whether, in the event of Certa Britan before sons and ample considerations, we cannot but ask ourselves whether, in the event of Great Britain being engaged in a war, the action, either of the enemy or even of neutral powers in a matter upon which such divergence of opinion still exists, is likely to be governed by any precedent we or any one else may have set in the past, rather than by the immediate interests of the moment."

The next day, when a party went to the house, and when about 100 yards away, they were startled by the report of a gun at the house. They advanced cautiously, and, looking in, found the two bodies lying side by side on the floor. Dentzer had spread a cover on the floor and faid the dead body on it, and when he saw the men approaching, laid himself down beside the body, and, putting the muzzle of the gun to his eye, he fired another fatal shot, killing himself instantly.

THE FLOUR SEIZURES.

Officials at Washington Not Excited About Them at All.

THE INVESTIGATION SLOW.

United States Government Is Not Bother fident That Great Britain Will Act Quite Fairly in the Matter of beizing the Washington, Dec. 28. — The equanimity of the State Department is not af all disturbed over the significance attached in legal and mercantile circles to the stopping by British warships of British and Dutch merchant vessels bound for Delagoa Bay with cargoes exported from the United States. The officials express confidence that the British Government will make full reparation for any act committed by its naval agents if it turns out to have been illegal or unjustified, and they profess a profound conviction that Englishmen are not taking any hazardous chances just at present of antagonizing any considerable popular element in America. It is not known to the Socretary of State whether cargoes owned in this country have actually been confiscated, nor precisely what articles Great Britain proposes to regard as contraband during the continuance of the South African war. It is said that every nation on becoming engel in hostilities makes its own is, and seldom takes other name of the south african war. It is said that every mation on becoming engel in hostilities makes its own is, and seldom takes other name of the south african war. It is said that every mation on becoming engel and the segment of the treaty of Paris, a proclamation and a decree were issued by the President and the Queen Regent announcing adhesion to its provisions, but Spain did not announce what course she intended to pursue in other matters, except in confidential general orders to naval officers, fix any definite policy as to seizures and contraband.

officers, fix any definite policy as to seizures and contraband.

The supreme serenity of the State Department regarding the flour seizures is perhaps best illustrated by the steps already taken to ascertain the facts of the case, which are an essential preliminary to further action. On the receipt of complaints from American exporters that their products had been detained, and that their delivery at the neutral port of destination, Delagoa Bay, had been refused, the Secretary of State immediately transmitted the complaints to Ambassador Choate at London and Consul Hollis at Pretoria for investigation and report. These notes went by mail and Mr. Choate has barely received his own by this time, while that of Consul Hollis will scarcely reach him before March 1, 1900. As agents of the State Department reply to communications by the same means of transmission as the original query, no official information is apt to be in the possession of the authorities in Washington for weeks or months. The reason there was no resort to cable to determine whether American interests have been injuriously affected is found in precedents estabinterests have been injuriously affected is found in precedents established over a year ago, when, not-withstanding the selzure of British and other vessels by Argerican cruisers, Europeans nations realized that this Government in its Admiralthat this Government in its Admirat-ty Courts would determine the mer-its of each case as rapidly as pos-sible, as well as he liable for dam-ages in the case of every mistake, and that the greater the mistake and the longer the delay the greater would be the damages to be satis-fied.

The consideration shown by for-eigners whose vessels had been cap-tured last year and sent under prize crews to an American port of detention was extremely gratifying to this Government, which might have been seriously embarrassed had neutral Governments, by a show of im-patience, forced the Executive into the attitude of hastening the judi-ciary.

the attitude of hastening the judiciary.

The point officials make is that the British Imperial authorities in London are not yet more acquainted in the detention of ships off the south coast of Africa than are American officials, and as these ships admittedly did not fly the American flag there is no national affront involved calling for drastic measures, as when the Allianca was fired on, or when Captain igsbee brought-to the Restromel. In the latter case the British Government made no complaint whatever.

Edmonton, Dec. 28.—The Mounted Police at Fort Saskatchewan and Major Griesback down. Thirty civilians also sont in applications. Steele's appointment would be very popular here. Inspector A. E. Suider, one of the best men on the force, volunteered at once.

Montreal, Dec. 28.—Lieut.-Co, onel Steele, of the Northwest Mounted Police, who was in the city yesterday, received a telegram in the morning from Dr. Borden, offering him command of the Western division of the mounted rifles for South Africa. He at once wired his acceptance. Col. Steele was last winter in command of the Northwest Mounted Police in the Yukon.

PICKET STORY UNCONFIRMED.

Canadians New in South Africa Are Extremely Popular.

London, Dec. 28.— The correspondent of the Times, with Lord Methuen's forces at Modder River, says that it is difficult to over-estimate the effect of the Canadian and Australian loyalty, despite the rumors sedulously circulated that the despatch of the contingent did not represent the feeling of the colonies of the Empire. The correspondent says that the colonial detachments are extremely popular.

Cable From Col. Otter.

Ottawa, Dec. 28.—Hon. Dr. Borden yesterday afternoon received the following cable from Lord Stratheona: "Have cable from Otter, dated Belmont, 18th, that compressed meat and lime juice tablets most acceptable. Committee being formed will act accordingly."

Toronto, Dec. 28.—The rumor that a picket belonging to the Canadian contingent was cut off at Belmont on the 21s; has not been confirmed, officially or otherwise. If there was any truth in the story it would have been officially denied or confirmed by now. It can, therefore, be safely assumed that it is not true.

The Canadians and Their Colonel.

Toronto, Dec. 29.—There is some difficulty in deciding as to the meaning of the above cablegram furnished by the Associated Press yesterday with regard to Col. Otter or Col. Lessard joining Gen. Buller's staff A despatch came to hand first announcing that Col. Lessard conv. from outside places and sent to the Exhibition grounds, where they will be kept until the hour of departure. It will be necessary to secure 200 animals altogether.

proceeding to Natal. Subsequently a despatch from the Associated Press substituted the name of Col. Otter for that of Colonel Lessard. A despatch from the Globe's correspondent in London, received during the evening, says:—"It is reported from Cape Town that the Colonel commanding the Canadian contingent has joined General Buller's staff and proceeds to Natal." In spite, however, of this apparent confirmation of the Associated Press despatch, it is still doubtful whether it is Colonel Lessard or Colonel Otter who has been ordered to Natal. Col. Lessard went to South Africa "for service," and has been attached to the staff of General French. Nothing would be more natural than that he should be fransferred to the staff of General Buller, while it would be a somewhat odd course to take away the Commandant of the Canadian Battallon, although highly complimentary to Col. Otter personally. Some confusion may also have occurred over the names from the fact that Col. Lessard has been named as the commanding officer of the Canadian Mounted Rifles in the second contingent.

Recruiting at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Dec. 29.—Now that the officers of the second Canadian contingent to South Africa have been amounced, recruiting commenced last night. The number of cavalry men to be taken from Ottawa will be small, probably not more than half a dozen, and this fact will, of course, be a disappointment, as there are many times that number anxious to go. HILDA BLAKE HANGED. Brandon Murderess Calmly Met Her Fate on the Scaffold

Brandon Murdoress Calmly Met Her Fate on the Scaffold

Brandon, Man., Dec. 28. — Hilda Blake, the English girl who murdered her mistress, Mrs. John Lane, of this place, last July, was hanged yesterday morning in the court yard of the Brandon jail by Hangman Radcliffe, in the presence of a few officials. She was perfectly calm as she walked to the scaffold. The drop fell about 8.40 a.m.

She showed the same firmness in stepping on to the scaffold as she had showed ever since she confessed the deliberate and cold-blooded shooting of her employer. When asked if she had any statement to make she said, "Nothing." Hangman Radcliffe did his work without a hitch, and death was instantaneous. The woman spent her last night on earth in prayer and hymn-singing. On Saturday afternoon, in talking with the Crown prosecutor, she was in good humour and most cheerful. She preferred death to spending her days in Jail. Hilda Blake had been in Canada

Hilda Blake had been in Canada over ten years, having been sent to this country with a number of other girls from an English workhouse by Lady Beauchamp. She was 22 years of age. The nurder of Mrs. Lane was a cold-blooded one. A Calician was first blamed for having committed the deed, but he proved his innocence. The young servant was suspected and altimately confessed that she shot her mistress, stating that she went up to Mrs. Lane in the drawing room of her home, kissed her and then shot her.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 5, 1900

THE C. P. RAILWAY.

The adeption of the C.P.R. borns by-law by the town of Lindsay and the township of Ops is a very gratifying demonstration of the public spirit and enterprise of these communities. C.P.R. connection and Monday's vote is the best advertisement Lindsay has had or could have for many years; and large results beneficial to the town and county may be looked for with confidence. There were pessimists who predicted all kinds of dampers and evils, but we are told there were pessimists of a similar class in the old days, who objected to the Midland rallway—the first that came to the town of Lindsay. Fortunately, a large majority of the ratepayers were not deterred by the pessimists from going in for progress. The majority took the view set forth by Mr. Mossom Boyd in his address at the public meeting here, when he said the people of Lindsay should have deep faith and atrong confidence in their town and in its many advantages as a county from—advantages which be thought The adoption of the C. P. R. bonus in its many advantages as a county town-advantages which he thought were not fully appreciated and made the most of. Lindsay is so far shead and has so many advantages that i need not fear competition from smaller places.

The opposition to the project in the flown was very keen and dangerous, but largely of a personal character. It is suggested that the company should give the contract for construction to Mr. John McDonald at 88,000 a mile—the floure at which he $8,000 a mile-the figure at which he contended it could be built for. If they would do that they might make the "pot of money" Mr. McDonald said there was in it. We fear, howsaid there was in it. We lear, now-ever, that the government would not grant the subsidy to a read of that class, and the C.P.R. certainly would not take it over and work it: so they will have to build it in accordance with the standard laid down by Mr. Jennings and Mr. Brunel, at from $12,000 to $15,000 per mile, for the people of the interested munici-palities want a good, well-built rail-way, and the C.P.R. will take no

Board of Trade and the new town council should put their heads together and make the most of the new and improved situation whenever industries are seeking any new industries are seeking location. "This is the growing time.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Rose' new policy of limiting the period given timber limit purchas-ers in which to remove the lumber to ten years is another step toward asserting the right of all the people to the bounties of nature The royalty on Yukon gold is along the same line. Unreasoning tory par-tisans may complain all they like. but the people do not regard this as a bad policy. Generally applied, it would relieve labor and improve-ment of all state charges. And why should it not be gradually and gen-erally applied?

Dwight L Moody was a man who was very much in the world's eye. Few men who take so active a part Few men who take so active a part in erangelism escape adverse criticism as well as he did. He had great force of character and that peculiar mag-netism that marks the born orator. He was not narrow in his theological views, and however illogical he may at times have appeared he was right at heart and labored to do good to his fellows. His presence in the evangelistic arena raised its tone. Who shall succeed him?

Toronto Telegram, tory: All the facts now available go to show that Hon. N. Clarke Wallace was scarcely justified in reproaching the Minister of Militia or the government for lack of news as to the Royal Canadian Regithe boys at Belmont. It is easy to understand the natural impatience of families which have representatives at the front, but it is not just to blame the Hon. Dr. Borden, who, in a particularity trying time, has had a lot to do and has done everything well.

The prosperity of the Dominion is reflected in the business of the part of Montreal. grain of 75 per cent, in the brief period of four years. The total trade of the of four years. The total trade of the port of Montreal in the year now elosing exceeded $23,200,000 that of any previous year in the history of Canada. The amount of customs duty collected at Montreal had risen from $6,480,000 in 1895 to $8,920,000 during this present year, or an increase of 38 per cent."

Will Sir Charles Tupper's "millionaire friend," generally supposed to be Mr. Grahan, of the Montreal Star, come from his obscurity to "insure" the second contingent? Or will he conclude that there is not enough party capital in the venture?

Britain is not likely to seize Delagoa Bay, no matter how useful it might be to her now. Mr. Chamberlain may bluster and menace other powers, but the cabinet is not looking for any more trouble just now. And the seizure of Delagoa Bay would probably bring enough of it, and quickly.

BOER LINE OF RETREAT CUT OFF.

The Tugela Is Now Fordable and General Buller Is Expected to Shortly Renew His Attempt to Cross the Riverinforcements-Col. Pilconnimed officially, the War Office yesterday afternoon issuing a despatch from Cape Tewn, dated Monday, Jun. 1, as follows:

French reports at 2 p.m. to-day from Coleskop, by heliograph, as follows: 'Leaving at Rensburg, holding the enemy in front, half of the First Suffolks and a section of the Royal Horse Artillery, I started thence at 5 in the afternoon, Dec. 31, taking with me five squadrons of cavalry, half of the Second Berks and 80 mounted infantry, infantry carried in wagons, and 10 guns. I halted for four hours at Maidor's farm, and at 3.30 this morning occupied the kopje overlooking and westward of Colesberg. The enemy's outposts were taken completely by surprise. At daylight we shelled the langer and enfiladed the right of the enemy's position. The artillery fire in reply was very hot from a 15-pounder, using royal laboratory animunition, and other guns. We silenced the guns on the enemy's right fank, demonstrating with cavalry and guns, to the north of Colesberg, towards the junction, where a strong laager of the enemy was holding a hill and a position southeast of Colesberg, as far as the junction. Our position cuts the line of retreat via the bridge. Some thousands of Boers, with two guns, are reported to be retiring towards Norval's Point. All RCuington's Norval's Point. All RCuington's scouts proceeded towards Achterland yesterday morning.

Brief independent messages from Rensburg, filed the evening of Jan. 1, supplement General French's despatch but slightly. According to them the British were still shelling the Boer position at 5 o'clock Monday evening, and expected to enter Colesburg to-day. The British losses were three men killed and seven wounded, none of them being an officer The Boers are supposed to have suffered heavily from the accuracy of the British artillery fire. General French's statement that the Boers were using a 15-pounder and Woolwich ammunition evidently refers to one of the British guns captured at Stormberg. The Boer strength in the engagement with General French was estimated at from 5,000 to 7,000 men.

The Best Work on South Africa. (From the Guelph Daily Horald, Dec. 70.)

The war in South Africa has caused The war in South Alrice has caused several publishers to advertise forth-coming histories of that country. We have several of the prospectus books before us. One is from the pen of a newspaper correspondent who was in South Africa a short time ago, but is not there at all now. Another is a rehash of Livingstone's and Stauley's travels, with a few engravings and pages added. Apparently newspaper reports and paste and scissors are re-lied on to make up nearly all such forthcoming books on South Africa. But we are glad to know that South Africa, with the added interest of the war, is going to be a subject of one war, is going to be a subject of one first class book by the best known authors of the present day, and that the same is not being run through with lightning speed, but has been in preparation for many years. John Clarke Ridpath, L.L.D., author of "Gyclopaedia of Universal History," "Life and Times of Gladstone," "History of the World," etc., is undoubtedly the best American historian living, and the equal of any historian of any land. He is aesisted by Edward S. Ellis, M.A., author of the Standard H'story of the United States, a work that has made Mr. Ellis a world wide reputation. A considerable part had already been written when hostilities commenced, and a great number of photographs and drawings obtained while official sources were easy of access.

ready been written when hostilities commenced, and a great number of photographs and drawings obtained white official sources were easy of access.

As war became a certainty, arrangements were made for direct correspondence as to the progress of events. The work will excell all others as a record of the war, and be incomparable in other respects. It will be profusely, and handsomely illustrated. There will be about 150 pages, half tone engravings, executed in a style superior to that of the largest American magazines, and certainly in striking and beautiful contrast to the illustrations in the other prospectuses that we have seen. These will comprise scenes in South Africa, and sketches of the great battles—many of which have been sent from South Africa direct to the publishers—life-like portraits of Lord Roberts, Lord Kitchener, Col. Otter, Gen Joubert, Paul Kruger and other prominent commanders of the British and Boer forces. Of special interest will be the section davoid to the Canadian contingent, which will be from the pen of Mr. J. A. Copper, managing editor of the Canadian Majazine and one of the abtest writers in the Dominion. There will be twenty full page illustrations of the first Canadian contingent, and cyuling page illustrations of the first Canadian contingent, and cyuling page illustrations of the strength of the prospectus of the strength in the Dominion. The quickest and surest relief for Backache Kidney troubles, and can show more evidence to that effect than all other advertised remedies combined. Dr. Pitcher admits that he cannot formulate a remedy that is good for all human ills, but stakes his reputation on these tablets for Backache and Kidney Troubles, and will not allow them to be advertised as a "jack of all trades medicine."

Geo. Gaiu, Lindsay, says ;-"Hearing of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Tublets I procured a bottle from A. Higinbotham, druggist, and I want to say they are excellent. I had a very bad backache, the result of cold settling there, and they cured it in very short order, so I feel I can recommend them extrongly to anyone suffering from Backache or Kidney troubles."

Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets are put up in wooden bottles, with green wrapper bearing the portrait and signature of Z. Pitcher, M.D. Each bottle contains fifty table'ts, price 50 cents per bottle. Manufactured by the Pitcher Tablet Co., Toronto, Ont.

London, Jan. 2.—(1.30 a.m.)—The success of Gen. French in driving the Boers from Colesburg has sent a welcome ray of light through the gloom of the campaign in South Article. Everywhere it is commented upon as an illustration of what may be done when the right methods are employed with the Boers. The Government is urged to take the lesson to heart and see that no stone is left unturned in the endeavor to get the largest possible force of cavalry and mounted infantry to the front.

Now that Gen. French has the Boers on the run, the hope is expressed that he will give them no rest, but will harnas them until they have found their way across the Orange River, which is 12 miles distant. The old wagon route to the Free State traverses Colesburg, and crosses the river by a Due bridge, 1,346 feet. long. It is believed that the Boers retreated towards Norval's Point, eacher east; and the question is

French Has Colosburg.

Franch Has Colesburg.

Rensburg, Cape Colorby, Jan. 2.—
Gen. French has completely defeated the Buers and occupied Colesburg.

The general continued to keep the Buers on the move, and pressed them closely Saturday and Sunday, giving them no time to make a prolonged stand, and when day broke he was within striking distance of the enemy. Sunday night all the cavalry, artillery and Infantry, the latter riding in wagons to increase the general mebility, started upon a night march with the object of turning the Boers' right. The dank operations were successful. The Infantry and field batteries limediately made a foint attent, and while this was proceeding the cavalry and light artillery got completely around the enemy's right flank, as arranged. The program worked without a hitch. The Boers were utterly surprised and, finding worked without a hitch. The Boers were utterly surprised and, finding their retreat threstened fleet in dis-

What Buller Has to Mest.

London, Jan. 2.—The Standard's correspondent at Ferés Camp, telegraphing on Jan. 1, says: Sir Charles Warren's division is now nearly complete. Its headquarters will be at Fetcourt. It is rumored here that the guns which were captured from Gen. Buller at Colema have been mounted in the hills commanding the drift over the Tugola River at Springfield. The Boers, it appears, captured 520 rounds of shrapnel when they took the guns. Gen. Buller's difficulties have been immensurably increased by the enforced dolay since difficulties have been immeasurably increased by the enforced delay since the last engagement. He has now before him a series of walled and for time and the last engagement of the along the last engagement. These are swarming with the enemy, posted in positions of great strength, and bristing with guns, while the river in front in in full flood. The coming lattic will certainly be the stiffest and probably the most momentous of the entire campaign."

Heliograph reports from Lady-smith show that all was well on Dec. 31. The bombardment was being continued, but its intensity had rehaved. An official despatch from Lady-smith confirms the report cabled yes-terday that several officers of the Devenshire Regiment were severely wounded by the explosion of a Boer shell in the mess tent.

A new armored train has reached General Buller from purban.

How to be Healthy In Winter.

Winter is a trying time for most people—especially so for delicate ones. Colds, la grippe and pneumonia find them easy victims.

Do you catch cold easily? It shows that your system is not in a condition to resist disease. You will be fortunate if you escape pneumonia. Nature is always fighting against disease. The right kind of medicine is the kind that helps Nature by toning up the system and enabling it to resist disease. Such a tonic is only found in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. By building up the blood and strengthening the nerves these pills reach the root of disease and restore health, and make people bright, active and strong.

Mrs. R. Doxsee, Gravenhurst, Ont., writes:—"I believe that Dr. Williams' Pink Pilla saved my life. When I began their use I was so weak that I was scarcely able to be out of my bed, and showed every sympton of going into a decline. I was pale, emailated, suffered from headsches and nerve exhaustion. I used Dr. Williams' PinkePille for a couple of months, and they have completely restored me."

The nuptial ceremony was performed at 5 p.m. by the Rev. Wm. Kannawin, of Omemee, in the presence of the nearest relatives of the bride and groom. The bride looked charming, gowned in white silk organdie, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. She was given away by her father. Miss Maggie Argue made a very becoming bridesmaid and looked very pretty in a dress of white organdie and carrying a bouquet of pink carnations. The groom was creditably supported by Mr. A. Percy McLean, of Feterboro. The house was perttilly decorated with roses, carnations and potted plants. A delicious luncheon was prataken of and the remainder of the evening spent in yoes; and instrumental music and conversation. The groom's present to the bride was a handsome gold watch and chain and to the bridesmaid a beautiful gold brooch with opal getting. The popularity of the bride was shown by the number of valuable and useful presents sho was the recipiant of, among them being a handsome cheque and some very choice sitver, ware. Newspapers and Magazines

-Dr. Watson ("Ian Maclaren") makes a fine beginning of his "Life of the Master" in McClure's Magaof the Master" in McClure's Magazine for January, with chapters covering the period of youth and child-hood. Mark Twain contributes a sketch in which he professedly betrays the confidence of W. D. Howells, Cable, Stockton, Aldrich, and other brother authors, by telling us what has been the abiding (and, of course, unrealized) ambition of each Other interesting contributions are an account of the way in which an artificial heat of nearly 4000 degrees is now generated and governed to daily service in an American factory; a popular explanation, by Prof. Sindon Newcombe, of how astronomera weigh the planets; and Leutemant Fenry's account of his last year's work in the Scribner's Magazine for January.

The comedy in the opening chapters is in Mr. Barrie's most delightful view. Theodore Rosesvelt also beings in the number his monograph on "Oliver Cromwell," which is to be a feture of the magazine for six months. The illustrations are elaborate and sumptions. He was recommended to use this great kidney specific, with the result that within a few weeks' treatment he was able to resume his work again a cured man, feeling stronger and heartier than he had for years.

ng after we had re-It was at long after we had returned to bottom of the hill that we met for a sk of the garrison, and with them sturdy middle-aged man, who darned out to be the hero of the late battle, Capt, Bradely. He was busy just then in giving some orders about the strengthening of the breastworks, and we merely got a short nod from him in exchange for our salute, though this proved to be but the beginning of our acquaintance. I can now compass the events of two weeks or more into a very brief space. My companions and I passed most of the time ashore, and though we did not seem to slight our shipmates, took care to have as little of their rough and unaeceptable company as possible.

But these small things soon passed out of our thoughts, for one morning out of our thoughts, for one morning eeptable company as possible.

But those small things soon passed out of our thoughts, for one morning Capt. Morgan's fleet was sighted. In a moment there was the liveliest sort of stir and excitement. At first the wind was contrary, but finally one craft and then another bent its way in, and before nightfall all had fetched the mouth of the river. Here a rather serious misfortune happened, for, what with our rejoicing and their own pleasure and tumult, the people of the first four of the ships steered upol the daugerous sunken rock, and heir erafts were wrecked. The northwind coming on to blow also all the ships and the ready was only a stidnally exertion that all the analysis of the ships were ble exertion that all the ntents of the ships were ressels themselves being barricades, and all the crews were mustered and set to work. We found the chief's design was to make this a strong place, that we might have a haven of refuge in case things went wrong at Panama.

By the end of the next day we had the place in a very fair posture for defense, whereupon Morgan had us knock off, and reparation was forthwith made for great the expedition. There were a tip seem to the property of the place of the plac for conveyance we had five barges, ten ships' boats and 32 cances. However, we knew that we were not to cover the whole distance by water, as there must be some leagues of a march from the head of unvigation to the city. Every plan save one was carefully made, but that one proved of passing importance.

It was the matter of provisions, which Capti Morgan thought we should take but a light supply of, as he conceived and we started up the river.

My companions and I were still in Pradey's command, not having found a sufficient excuse for transference, though indeed it made little difference, for all the companies were as one large one, with Margan at the head.

That day nothing of special note happened. We all greatly relished the embowering of the woods and greenery, after so long dwelling about the gea, and for a time the men sang and laughed and splashed their hands in the water like so many joyous children.

The fourth day a great the same talk together.

we marched by land, being faint with hunger, but finding a few wild fruits, of which, at some risk (for we were not sure whether they were harmful or not), we partook. That day we were nearly exhausted, Mac Ivrach being compelled to abide altogether in one of the canoes, but at nightfall we found some huts containing several empty leathern bags, and these we desperately cut to pieces, and, having removed the hair, boiled, pounded and cut them in small bits, were only too glad to make our supper of them.

The eighth morning we still staggered along, weak, but in a sullen way determined. But now the terrible strain was nearly over. On the ninth day was nearly over. On the ninth day our guides showed us a little mountain, which, having ascended, behold there lay the South sen! We were even able to make out some ships which must have sailed freshly from Panama. must have sailed freshly from Panama. Going down from the mountain into a vale, what was our joy to find a considerable herd of cattiel. These were attacked as though we had been a pack of wolves, and after slaying all we could we cut off the flesh in great flakes, and, having pitched it into hastily-made fires, drew it out half roasted and greedily devoured it. It was a sight to startle one to see the half-starved wretches at their repast. They gnawed and grunted, and between times broke out in laughter, the blood running down their hands and staining their garments to the waist. As to myself and my companions, particularly Mr. Tym, it is but waist. As to myself and my companions, particularly Mr. Tym, it is but fair to say we behaved somewhat less like beasts, though, in truth, the taste of that charred, warm flesh was to us of a sweetness and deliciousness beyond words of mine to describe! Greatly refreshed and now in heart again, we pushed on, and having ascended a considerable hill, beheld at last the steeples of Panama. the drummers began to beat and the trumpeters to blast. We had scarce mnde this din when there was a noise of hoofs, and a little company of Spaniards appeared on the opposite hill. The distance was short, and we distinctly heard their threats as they broke out savagely at us.

I slept but ill, and that not only because my mind was excited but because in the night the Spaniards fetched some cannon out of the city and besome cannon out of the city and began firing upon us. Fortunately, they advanced their battery but a little way, and none of the shot hurt us, but only kept up a considerable noise and cut down branches from the trees about us. Mr. Tym seemed much less disquieted than I was, though once or twice he sat up and watched the commotion of the shot among the trees.

I fell asleep at last, though I had not believed so till I found myself coming out of a troubled dream and my com-

CHAPTER XIII.

OF THE OPENING OF THE BATTLE. OF THE OPENING OF THE BATTLE.
We were speedily in order, and every captain went to the head of his company. Morgan looked in a satisfied way along the lines and drew his sword. At that moment he seemed to have lost a little color, but his bearing was bold and steady. He pointed toward the hill, and with the Ibud word "Forward!" led us into the road.

It seemed but a moment before we were over the rise and marching down

I thought there must be 3,000 of them. The greater part were foot, but on each flank was a considerable body of horse. Their arms and appointments seemed of the best description, their cuirasses and helmets, in particular, gleaming like pools of water with every movement.

At least, I thought, we have our work eut out. I greatly doubtif we can overcome such a strong force.

This I found was the opinion of many others, for a kind of growing a more-

"Halt!" cried Morgan, sharply. The men were only too glad to obey. "Listen, comrades," he went on. "You fear yonder gang, but without rea

They are not what they look. I will be sworn not a score of them could carry half a glass of wine to their lips without spilling it. They tremble. They know us. Stand firm, then!"

This talk put the men in some heart, but still they seemed in no hurry to advance. Morgan spoke to one of the captains and the man stepped to the front, and ran his eye along the line. He then rapidly selected from the different companies 50 men, and these he ent companies 50 men, and these he dered to stand forward. I imthat everyone

It was as he said. The ground on both sides of the broad road was a meadow, and in places were quags and miry spots. It was clear that we had but to stand firm and repel the horse.

Morgan gave us no more time for reflection. The captain with his sharp-shooters set forward, and the rest of us were brought into a new formation stone building. The flat roof of this was mounted with cannon, and behind so as best to repel an attack. To compass this we were made to form along square with double lines, all facing outward, and a few little cannon were placed in front and rear. This done, we had an opportunity to watch the progress of our advance company.

Some paces on they went, the enemy making no movement to stay them, and then of a sudden one of the bands of horse trotted into the road, and at the biast of a trumpet broke forward at a swift gallop.

I almost held my breath, as did I am sure my companions. Down thundered the horse. They deployed right and left, and were almost upon our men. Then the cool buccaneers lifted their guns, and following the ronr I saw the foremost of the riders flash out of their saddles. There was a pulling up and rearing and plunging of frightened animals, and almost before I could realize it the remainder of the troop had reined about and were thundering ad reined about and were thundering back whence they came. We broke into frantic cheer, and by

We broke into frantic cheer, and by a common impulse the entire square surged forward.

"Lead on, Morgan!" thundered Paul Crade; "we can wipe those fellows off the earth!"

"Not yet!" shouted Morgan, his face now red and fiery, and his voice set almost to the pitch of a laugh. "We must repel another charge or two first."

And so it proved. There was a little confusion in the Spanish ranks, as the flying riders rode back and wheeled to regain their old station, and then another trumpet sounded and the entire body of foot moved forward.

"Stand fast!" said Morgan in deep tones.

The enemy came on slowly, and of The enemy came on slowly, and or a sudden stopped. The line of guns glittered, and instantly everything was confused in flame and smoke. As it cleared away I saw half a score of our advance fellows down, and the other running at full speed toward us. No one in the main body, as far as I could see, was hurt.

expanding and their borse circling out light of the meadow. In a flash the whole army seemed to be inclosing us.

It would be much to my mind if I could describe with clearness and precision what followed. Unfortugately it is beyond my power. It was all a whirl and a maze of figures and the puffing in and breaking of clouds of smoke, and beyond that little but some clattering of swords and guns and much jostling about. I was not in the front rank, and could only step this way and that, as my companions advanced or retreated, and beyond once vany and taat, as by companions averaged or retreated, and beyond once discharging my gun did no actual fighting. It was soon over, and I saw that the enemy had broken.

"After them, and take some prisoners!" Morgan roared.

1 was immediately left in a little clear space, with only Mr. Tym and Mac Ivrach near at hand. The others had made a dash after the flying Spaniards.

My two companions, like myself, were unhurt. In this respect they were more fortunate than 20 or so of our mates. Nine or ten of these were killed outright, and the others were doubled up with pain or sitting about bloody and bewildered.

The smoke gradually thinned out, and I looked toward the city. I saw the Spaniards slowly but doggedly retreating, stopping at intervals to the Spaniards slowly but doggedly retreating, stopping at intervals to wheel and fire a desultory volley. Our advance men were at their heels, but did not pursue far, for, having taken five or six prisoners, they let go a parting shot or two and returned.

Morgan now harangued us briefly, saying that victory was assuredly within our reach, and that we had but to put forth one more effort to secure it. This speech being well received, he left a guard of 200 with the wounded, and also to act as a reserve, and led the rest to the attack. Mr. Tym, Mac

We marched directly toward the enemy, and at once received their fire, losing ten or twelve in killed and several wounded. Then, of a sudden, Morgan sprang to the right, and we, wheeling after him, he led us almost at a run from the read into the meadow. I immediately perceived what he would do, which was to avoid the forts and this strong front of the town, and attack a weaker place. To effect this be this strong front of the town, and attack a weaker place. To effect this he had feigned to make an assault, thereby holding the main force of the enemy where it was.

It was soft footing, and we ran rather heavily, but still we were making some progress when the foe trained their cannon on us, and though we were in loose formation they brought down well-nigh a score. Their musketeers also made forward and fired, and before we had proceeded 20 yards farther it seemed that not fewer than 100 buccaneers were either slain or wounded.

A man in front of me swung out and fell sidewise on the grass. A struck the stock of Mac Ivrach's ket, and as I turned my head to make sure that Mr. Tym was safe I felt a sharp, spiteful rap on my own headpiece.

Paul Cradde was a little way on my right, and he had begun to swear when a shout went up from those in front and with great suddenness the whole command came to a halt. I saw three or four of the captains running out into the field, and in a moment their several commands were fellewise. several commands were following them, and now we were wheeled short and faced toward the city.

roared Paul Cradde.
"Aye, aye!" shouted a man near me.
The trumpets sounded a quicker note, and we broke into a run.

I could glance between the heads in front of me and see what sort of place we were approaching. Five of state whits stood out in front, some paddocks or cattle yards ran along in the rear, and still back of these was a long, low were approaching. Five or six little crouching figures of soldiers. A troop of horse was drawn up at the right of the long building.

We lowered our heads and made straight forward. Then the enemy's discharge broke, and men went crashing down on all sides of me. Before the smoke had lifted we returned the fire and were immediately among the little buts. I threw down my gun and drew my sword, and fetched a glance around for Mr. Tym. He was not to be seen. for Mr. Tym. He was not to be seen. Mac Ivrach was a few paces away, and Mac Ivrach was a few paces away, and through the smoke were some other familiar figures. I hesitated, being filled with lively anxiety concerning the supercargo, and while I delayed the last of my companions passed on. I glanced hastily about, not really caring to be abandoned, and at that moment felt a sudden and strange shock. I perceived that I had been hit, and stagered toward a hut and leaned against. gered toward a but and leaned against it. After a little interval, it seemed to me that I made out the shape of a human figure breaking through the smoke. I could see but dimly, but I thought the man was Pradey.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF THE CONCLUSION OF MY ADVEN-TURE AND THE FALL OF THE CITY. LIKEWISE OF THE STRANGE THING THAT HAPPENED THEREAFTER.

THAT HAPPENED THEREAFTER.

I made a kind of dreamlike effort to come back to myself, and for an instant half succeeded. The advancing figure came out plainer. I saw the face, and it was indeed Pradey's. I struggled to keep it steadily in view, but it insisted on swimming in with the puffs of smoke, and us my giddiness increased it lost all shape and outline. I must have slipped from my position against the slipped from my position against the hut at this point, for things gave a kind of upward flash, in particular, one object danced out like a bright piece of object danced out like a bright piece of steel, and then I was conscious of a hard jolt and all was blackened out.

The next that I am able to recall is a great swaying and awinging sensation, followed by an abrupt pause and then a little cold shock. I opened my eyes and found a wet cloth on my forchead, the ends hanging down on my cheeks. I put up my hand and drew the cloth away. As I clared my eyes a figure close by stepped forward and I perceived with joy that it was Mr. Tym. He was in his fighting gear, wanting only the headuice, and seemed to be only the headpiece, and seemed to be quite unburt. He smiled as I stared up at him.

"You are safe, then?" I said. fired, and before we had proceeded 20 yards farther it seemed that not fewer than 100 buccaneers were either slain or wounded.

This could not last. The enemy was having it all his own way, and unless we could turn upon him soon he would lay us all dead or drive us off the field. A man in front of me syvune out sed to provoke fever."

"To be sure, and you, also. It was but a little furrow turned along the skull, but might easily have been serious. Nay, but you had best remain where you are," he pursued, as I would have risen. "There is some heat in your wound, and in this weather it were easy to provoke fever."

I perceived the wisdom of this advice. d settled back in my place. I glanced however, and saw that I was a shelter made of the rails of one of the neighboring paddocks covered with palm thatch. By the brightness of the sun that came in at the do the oppressive heat I guessed that it must be nigh noon.

My thoughts seemed now to fall into their natural order, and I made haste to question him.

"How does it happen that I am here?"

I said; "and in what manner was I de-livered from Pradey?"

"I killed the villain," he answered, quietly. "It were best that you did you want on "I want

"It were best that you did not talk overmuch now," he went on, "but to satisfy you I will say that I missed you and tarned back, and found missed you and tarned back, and found you wounded, and with Pradey making in upon you. I had scant time, but fired, and was fortunate enough to send a ball through his head. Then I dragged you a bit aside, and presently was able to secure the aid of one of the men, when we brought you hither."

This was great news, to be sure—in especial, the part that related to Pradey—and I was content to remain silent a moment and reflect upon it.

"Then that villain is gone! Surely we have reason to rejoice," I said at last. "But how think you will the other buccaneers take it? Do they buccaneers take it? Do they know the manner of his death? Nay, and it were best that they should not," answered Mr. Tym, lowering his voice. "Let it seem that he "True," said I, "that will be wise. But now what of the fortunes of the their blood is a little cooled and he can be sure of obeddence."

"Well," said I, a little wearfly, and withal my head fetching a pang, "tell me one other thing and I am content. How has it gone with Mae Ivrach?"
"Not so much as scratched," he answered. "He was here but a little time ago."

f was glad to give over with this, and lay for awhile quietly. Mr. Tym sat down in the door of the hut and began to care for his arms, and I was on the verge of falling asleep. Of a sudden there was a far-off noise of shouting, followed by a long-drawn, agonized scream.

"What," I cried, starting up, "has the fiends' work begun already?"
"It would seem so," he said, with a sigh. "I conceive they are putting some poor creature to the torture. some poor creature to the torture. Doubtless Morgan will have an early Doubtless Morgan will have an early word concerning treasure, and also seek to learn of traps and snares."

"Would that God might blast him and all his foul erew!" I cried, in fiery indignation.

Mr. Tym composed his lips, as though to assent, but did not answer.

"I smell smoke," I said, after a little.

"Will they be barning the town?"

He stepped to the door of the hut and looked out.

"Nay, I think not, yet a building here

"Nay, I think not, yet a building here and there is burning. Aye, one of the cathedrals is ablaze. I will try to learn what it means."
Here I heard some people hurrying past, and Mr. Tym, going a little farther out, hailed them.
I could not distinguish what they said, but in a moment he returned.
"There are no orders for burning.

'There are no orders for burning, "There are no orders for burning, so it is claimed, yet four or five considerable buildings, including one cathedral, are in flames. Morgan has ordered the people of the town to fight the fire, and some of the buccaneers have been detailed to lend aid."

"The smoke smells wondrous strong," I observed.
"I think that comes from the burning of a few outlying huts," he answered. "They are but a short space from here. Nay, they are nigh where from here. Nay, they are nigh where I found you." "I might have been roasted, as well, had you not searched me out," I said, with a long breath. "Yet tell me-how near adjacent to the city are we?" mear adjacent to the city are we?"

"It is the space where the paddocks stood," he answered. "The men have pulled the rails down and converted them, as you see, into frames for huts. Phibbert and the man I told you of helped me build this one."
"Phibbert is no bad fellow," I said, gratefully. "And as for you—truly, how am I indebted to you!"
"Speak not of it," he said, lightly. "I am indebted to you also."
We were silent a moment, and in the

We were silent a moment, and in the We were silent a moment, and in the interval I could hear the confused noises and cries from the town, though, to my vast relief, no more shrieks.

"Do we quarter in the place tonight?" I finally asked.

"Morgan says no," he answered. "He will wait till the morrow. Alas! and I dread that time!"

"And how long will their hell's work.

"And how long will their hell's work

"And how long will their hell's work last?" I said, despondently.

He heaved a sigh and began to pace up and down, which showed how deeply he was moved, though his judgment told him it was to no purpose. I sighed in response and fell silent, my spirits not a little depressed.

It seemed that Morgan continued to his resolution to withdraw his forces from the city till the next day, this ex-cepting only two or three companies that should search for any concealed fighting men, and should also seize and man the few ships in the harbor, rest of his command he meant to place about the landward part of the city guarding it that none should escape.

guarding it that none should escape.

All this, I may say in a word, was done. Little resistance was offered to our searching party, and indeed it was soon found that the governor and those of his captains who were unhurt as well as many of the soldiers had incontinently fied. So my vengeance and that of my companions on the haughty Don Perez de Guzman must at least be put off.

I remained in the hut during the day. Indeed the heat was terrible, and it would have been a bid for a fever for then I went to the but door and then Then I went to the hut door, and thence could see the men extend their lines so as to engirdle the city, but such was the fervor of the sun that the morement was performed slowly, and with a general mien of listlessness. LINDSAY TALK.

It is but a short time (counted by days) since Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets first came to Lindsay. It was said they were something entirely out of the common as a specific for Backache and Kidney Complaints, and medicines failed to influence. Lindsay, people are quickly coming to the front to substantiate this statemenf. One of them is Wm. C. Crossley, Lindsay, who relates his experience as follows "My work on the new granolithic sidewalks is very heavy, and requires good deal of stooping; as a result I ive had considerable Backache and Kidney Trouble. I used a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tab-lets I got at A. Higinbotham drug store, and they are just the thing. They cured the trouble in short order, and I intend to recommend them to all others suffering in a similar way. They are very easy in action, and that is a great point."

The result obtained by Mr. Cross ley should appeal to thousands of aching backs, weak backs, kidney pained backs, that can now get relief from Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tab-

The contest for the mayoralty was The contest for the mayoralty was keen and close, and the success of Mr. Robt. Smyth, was disappointing to those who thought that Mr. Sootheran deserved to be elected mayor, after a faithful and hard year's work as chairman of the finance committee. It was urged against Mr. Smyth that he was unprogressive, that he believed in a stand-still policy, and would oppose anything in the way of improvements for the purpose of keeping down the rate of taxntion. We do not share in such belief, feeling that Mr. Smyth, who has served the town on other occasions well and honestly, can other occasions well and honestly, can town.

The aldermen elected on the whole are a very fair lot, and represent, perhaps, the pick of the number that offered. The election of Mr. J. Hore at the head of the poll must be very flattering to that gentleman, and showed the high esteem in which he is held by every class of citizens. With Ald Jackson as chairman of the finance committee, Ald. Grabam chairman of town property, we would fail to see any reason for complaint, and consider the arrangement would be superior to that of last year. Only two of last year's council were reelected, viz., Alda Jackson and Crandell, the former being swoond in tha field, and the "old war horse" being fifth.

elected, viz., Alon variety of the dell, the former being swoond in the field, and the "old war horse" being fifth.

The result of the voting on the railway by-law was quite a surprise to friends of the scheme. In Lindsay it was thought that while the by-law might be carried, the majority in its favor would be smaller than on the occasion of the former vote. Ope was looked upon as a foriorn hope, and even the most sanguine supporter of the railway scarcely dared to believe that the by-law would be carried in the township.

he railway scarcely dared to believe that the by-law would be carried in the township.

The favorable result of the voting n both Lindsay and Ops is, however, not to be wondered at when we consider the work done by such men as Mr. Gea McHugh, M.P., Sam J. Fox, M.P.P., Dr. Vrooman, T. Stewart, Newton Smale, Johnston Ellis, Dna, O'Consell, Jus. Robertson, J. A. Jackson, and many other prominent men of the town and township, each of whom spard to effort to convince the people of the beneficial results that would acrue to both municipalities from C. P. R. connection.

The result in all the other municipalities has been just as satisfactory. In Verulam, Bobcaygeon and Harvey, Messrs. M. Boyd, W. C. T. Boyd, John T. Robinson, D. Lavery, Jos. Lithgow, A. E. Bottum, Morgan Johns, Chas. Fairbairn, W. J. Read, W. C. Moore, and others, contributed argely to the successful result obtained.

Early in the fight it was though:

W. C. Moore, and others, contributed largely to the successful result obtained.

Early in the fight it was thought that the vigorous work put in by Mr. John McDonald against the railway by-law would defeat that scheme, but the electors thought that his change of fronk was not candid, and arose from the fact that he was left off the provisional board of directors. The vote was a veritable landslide in favor of liber road.

The result on the Waterworks was, however, the surprise of the day. It was thought by the supporters of the purchase of the Works by the town that the by-law in favor of buying the same would be snowed out of sight. The good sense of electors, however, led them to carry the by-law by a substantial majority. The ownership of municipal franchises has become a live issue of the people of Canada, and we believe that this is simply one of the steps that will ultimately lead to the acquisition of the electric light and other franchises, the possession and control of which would be of so much value to the people.

The result of the elections all around we believe to be highly satisfactory, and the people of Lindsay are to be congratulated on the broad-minded course taken by them.

Election Day Notes.

Yesterday was magnificent election weather, and the citizens went to the polls in great numbers. The total vote was practically all polled early in the afternoon. Never before in the history of the town have the ladies voted in such numbers, which goes to prove that the argument that women would not take much interest in polities is all wrong.

Good for Verulam! Majority for railway, 170. Manvers and Cartwright are all right, also. Harvey is yet to hear from, but is not important.

A well-known young gentleman, who is a prominent curler, distinguished himself yesterday by the gallantry and drress displayed in getting the courage of the ladies up to the young round the voting point. The handsome majorities for the railway and waterworks are a tribute to his courage and deplomacy.

works are a tribute to his courage and deplomacy.

Mrs. Thurston and Mrs. Goulais, of the porth ward, drove to Bobeaygeon early in the day and returned in time to poll their vote in Lindsay. They were both ardent railway supporters.

Mr. J. C. Leary, of King's Wharf, Emily was one of those who ton't a deep interest in the passage of the railway by-law. In the afternoon he came across two men who owned property here, and he hitched up his team and started for town with them, arriving ten minutes before the polls were closed. The roads were very bad, but he was bound to get the two votes in if he lamed his horses. That's 'the kind of vim that tells in any cause.

WHAT LINDSAY NEEDS

With unlimited quantities of raw material right at our doors, situated as we are in the midst of one of the finest agricultural districts in Canada, where food supplies may be obtained at the lowest cost, there is but one reason to our minds why Lindsay is not a far better town than it is. That eason we believe to be lack of population. The needs of the citizens and of modern civilization are greater than government is relatively increasing. If the population is allowed to remain stationary, as it practically has for some years, the tax rate will soon be high enough to swamp us.

What, then, is the remedy? Why, of course, if possible we should get more people to help us pay our taxes. How is this to be done? By providing every possible avenue for the speedy and cheap transportation of passengers and freight in and out of The more facilities there are for gelting easily to and from Lindsay the more there will be who will avail themselves of such facilities.

We believe that the construc-tion of the Lindsay, Bobcaygeon and Pontypool Railway will add a thousand to the population of Lindsay in a year, and of several thousands within a short number of years. The newcomers will need more houses, more stores, and much more of many other things, to provide for their wants. The value of real estate will increase, the assessment will be greater and the rate of taxation will again be brought within reasonable bounds.

Judge Barron Speaks Out.

At Stratford assizes Judge Barron, addressing the Grant Jurors, said that "the law which penalized a man because he painted his fence or made improvements was a blot on the statutes." And the Hamilton Times rises to remark: "The Judge is right. His remarks point the way to a great truth, which once seized upon and put into practice will right many wrongs and give industry its earnings untolled by indolence and spaculation. It will open new avenues to labor and lessen poverty and crime. There was a time when the single taxer was hooted at as a crank with anarchistic tendencies, but the light is breaking now. It does the pioneers in the struggle good to find that the pulpit and the beach are supporting them.

Eir Chas. Tupper and Disloyalty.

Montreal Witness: We can understand and forgive newspaper writers in the slums of Paris or under the frown of the Bastilles of St. Petersburg, fighting out thir own directed towards Great Britalo. Given the survival in all mankind of the primeval hatred of every race or people for every other race or people, and all that is necessary to gain popularity for any cause is to associate it with expressions of spite against some foreign bugbear. But it is hard to understand the course of Sir Charles Tupper's new French organ in dilating and expatiating in column after column garher-ed from the New York yellow press, and in pluture after picture upon England's dis-asters, and rolling its discoveries in this line like a sweet morsel under its tougue-You will probably not find a dieloyal sent-ence in the whole paper that you could lay hold upon and condemn as anti-British We have not read it cascully enough to say. None the less plainly does it appeal to its None the less plainly does it appeal to its readers in column after column to come and see how utterly the British have been routed, how complete their humiliation, how desperate their situation, and all this to make the ultral-cyalty baronet popular among the French Cau-diaus. We do not say that this paper is alone in this sort of thing. Along with many fine expressions of loyalty in the present crisis, which translate well, there is some manifest gleating chiefly perhaps in the conservative papers, over the empire's misfortunes. Given the aforesaid necessary artipathy of race as a constant factor in the makeup of all kinds of men, we must excues a great deal of this. It should not however, be the deliberate polley of an organ substitued and carefully controlled by the loyalty shouters.

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—Hon. Dr. Borden was in communication yesterday with the High Commissioner's Office in London, and received a cable informing him that four spare wheels for Maxim guns had been sent forward to South Africa to Col. Otter. Two of the wheels on the Maxim guns had been broken, and this is to replace them and to have two on hand ready for use. Col. Otter cabled to the Militia Department in the first instance, asking for the wheels. Another cable was received from Lord Strathcona stating that as only three Maxim guns were to be had to accompany the present contingent from Canada to South Africa, and that as a fourth was wanted and could not be had, a Colt gun would be forwarded instead. So that there will be three Maxim guns and one Colt on galloping carriages.

Yesterday he forwarded to Halifax 125 Bell tents complete, 2,500 blankets, 300 sets of saddlery, besides head ropes and numerous other articles. Hon. Orangeville, Ont., Jan. 2.—An enthusiastic meeting was held vesterday afternoon in the Town Hall to bid farewell to Maitland E. Stewart. familiarly known as "Dine," who has enlisted to serve with the Mounted Infantry of Canada, shortly to depart for South Africa. Althouth it was not known of "Dine's" enlistment until 8.30, when the evening train arrived from Toronto on Saturday, before midnight a purse of $250 was subscribed, which was presented yesterday to Mr. Stewart at the Town Hall in the presence of some 700 patriotic citizens. Mayor Walsh occupied the chair and delivered an able and touching address, at the same time presenting the purse to Mr. Stewart, who replied briefly, but with great feeling. Mr. Walsh was followed by Dr. Barr, M. P. P. for Dufferin; W. H. Hunter, Joseph Pattullo, Rev. R. W. Dickle, Dr. Lewis, J. E. Booth, John Neil, Mayor-elect Still, Richard Allen, G. J. It may be mentioned, however, that Mr. W. H. Hunter, one of the largest and most popular farmers in this section, presented Mr. Hubbard with his campaign horse, and that he was also, before leaving, presented with a purse and an insurance policy of $1,000, which was paid for by the Town Council. It is the intention of the County Council at its next meeting to insure Mr.; Stewart for $1,000, to be disposed of as he may direct. Fully 2,060 people gathered at the 6. P. Newton, who came up from Montreal, where they had enlisted, to say good-bye to their parcuts and friends. An immense crowd turned out to cheer the boys as they boarded the train. The Citizens' Band escorted the Town Council and modern citizens to the depot, and played music suitable to the occasion. Mr. James B. Tudhope, Mayorelect, said a few words of farewell on behalf of the town, and presented each of the boys with $25. As the train moved slowly out, three rousing cheers were given and the National Anthem sung.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Toronto's complement of the mounted infantry and artillery for service in South Africa has been completed. The men for the latter force were formally enlisted yesterday afternoon and this morning they will all assemble at the Armouries and receive their first instructions in gun drill. After they had been passed by the doctor the oath was administered to them. We commenced business in Lindsay. At that time some of the wise men of the town said "one or two years will do that fellow.' We are still here; and pleased to say 1899 has been for us the most prosperous year since we started, Thanks to the general public for their liberal share of patronage. MAYOR SMYTH REFERS TO THE YEAR'S WORK

Members Sign Their Declarations of Office and Qualification—Chairmen of Committees Appointed.

Mayor Smyth and the other members of the council for 1900, with the exception of Ald. J. D. Graham, assee the council chumber at 11 o'clock this morning to transact the usual preliminary business—the signing of the declarations of qualification and office, and selecting the chairmen of the several committees. Inaugural Address.

Mayor Smyth took advantage of an pportunity to deliver the following

Fellow Councillors,-I wish to take Fellow Councillors,—I wish to take advantage of this, my first opportunity, to publicly thank the rate-payers for honoring me with the position of Chief Magistrate for the fourth time, and to assure them of my best efforts to prove myself worthy of the important trust committed to me. I also wish to congratulate the rate-payers on being fortunate enough to get gentlemen of your ability and experience to assist me in the discharge board of works and a libral share of our revenue. In order to comply with the demands of the Insurance Underwriters, the fire hall and brigade will require some attention and a share of the appropriations.

The improvement of the small Central park and the heating of the Market house, fire hall and council chamber by some modern process so as to add to the comfort of the meu and lessen the expense, will, I trust, receive the earliest consideration of the town property committee.

In conclusion, gentlemen, I hope and believe that the aim of the council will be to reduce the rate of taxation, and at the same time expendithe available funds in keeping with the growing demands of our progressing town.

Ald. Crandell said he fell obliged to differ from Ald. Touchburn in a few respects. His advice was all right providing the council had decided to continue putting down plank walks, but he thought they should be done away with entirely. He noticed that a town up west had laid grano-lithic walks for 10c, per foot, and that was cheaper than good plank walks could be put down for. The town had found out something about granolithic walks last year—it gave the contract at 15c. to 16c, per foot, but it would not happen again, because we have men living here who can lay them cheaper and fully as well.

THE SEAT OF

Interesting Letter from Lieut. Joe Matthews.

ARRIVAL OF THE CANADIANS AT

The Trip up the Country Described—Arrival at DeAar Camp-The Dust Storms and Scarcity of Water Among the Annoyances to Endure.

The following extract from a letter ecently received by Mr. Geo. Mat thews, of this town, from his son, Lieut. Joe Matthews, of the Canadian Contingent, now at the seat of war in South Africa, will be perused with interest by our readers. DeARR CAMP, Dec. 4th.

interest by our readers:

DAARR CAMP, Dec. 4th:

I have a chance just now to write a brief letter; that is all I can promise for some time to come. Although we are not actually at the front, still, we are near enough to realize that this is no jubilee parade. We don't know just when we are going forward, but there is a rumor that we go to night to the relief of Kimberly. These rumors are flying about all the time, so I don't know whether to believe this one br not.

We don't noon. The harbor was fairly filled with transports which had brought deneral Buller's force out. The 1st battalion of Gordon Highlander: got in just shead of us, but we went into dock first, about four o'clock. We lay at the dock all night and disembarked in the morning. We were given a good recoption as the Sardinian moved into her place. We had no end of four toesing peanes to the Koffir boys on the dock; they scrambled and fought like little wolves. We were nllowed to walk on the ween't allowed to you town at all. In the morning we disembarked a nine, and after a short wait, were marched up to Green Point Camp, about four miles from the harlour. Cape town is a very pretty place, but there are so few trees that it did not suit my style. The mountains at the back are simply magnificent, and the scene from our camping ground is beyond any words of mine. Along with us there were detachments of a great many corps, but only a few of each. There were a number of wounded, and a few Boer prisoners as well. In talking with one of the men (one of the Scots Guards) he told me that the Boers in fighting are very treacherous, and even shoot on ambu, honce men while attending to the Boer wounded.

lonce men wine attending wounded.

We left Cope Town on Friday after, moon, and got here early Sunday morning. Travelling on the train was very pleasant. There were eight in each compartment, so there was lots of room, and we managed to buy extrast at the station, so we had plenty to eat.

The Country is a Desert

The Country is a Desert nearly all the way up. We went for miles without seeing a sign of habitation, while what few farms there were were poor affairs. We pussed a few ostrich farms and some large herds of goats. The railroad all the way is patrolled by the Duke of Edinburgh's regiment and some of the Volunteer cavalry. Our train ran yery slowly, and about every two miles passed a sentry with a flag or lamp.

very slowly, and about every two miles passed a sentry with a flag or lamp.

Our comp here is not too bad except for the dust. Yesterday, high winds prevailed, and in consequence no one could see for more than a few feet at any time through the day. It is hot, of course, but none of us mind that. There is very little water, so we belong to the "great unwashed." The nights are quite cool—in fact it is cold just before morning, and one blunket is not enough. We are not overburdened with kit as we left our valiese at Cape Town. I have a great coat rolled, and inside of it a few handkerchiefs, a pair of socks and a shirt, and if we go up to Kimberly we will have to leave these behind and fight in the clothes we stand up in.

This is a Large Camp.

About 8,100 men are here, and they say it is one of the strongest in this division. I don't know what troops are here, as they are scattered over the valley and we are not allowed to leave our lines. We have outposts on all the hills each side of the railway, so the position is indeed a strong one. The Cornwall regiment is next to us. So far we have found the British "Tommies" very fine fellows, and they seem only too glad to do anything for us. They seem to treat the Canadian privates with a certain amount of respect, and give us all the hints their experience prompts.

Al the conclusion of the installation ceremony, Reeve O'Connell addressed the council on the responsible duties he and they had just assumed. He said he hoped that every member would endeavor to do his duty honestly and fearlessly for the general welface of the township. They were the fare of the township. They were the trusted servants of the ratepayers, who had elected them, and he trusted that at the close of the year each would be able to render such an account of the year. would be able to render such an count of his stewardship as would fleets much credit on the Ops of cil of 1900. Notwithstanding heavy annual expenditure on mand bridges in the past, he feared the appropriation for roads, could be lessened much this year, but thing he desired the council to gragainst was the diverting of water against was the diverting of water from its natural course. The Annual Report of the Library and Reading-Room Committee.

Schitlemen.—The work of the Library and Reading-Room Committee this year has fallen into three and this year has fallen into three sections; 1st, to supplement the work of the Special Committee on Library arrangements and fixtures; 2nd, to select books for year and periodicals for 1800; and 3rd, to assue a new catalogue. In the discharge of each of these duties the Committee has spent a great deal of (inc. The Committee is able to report that the Library is now in good working condition. New shelving has given largely increased accommodation. The Library is fairly supplied with appliances for its work. A receiving wicket has been conveniently placed, catalogues have been placed in the Reading Room, and full directions as to the use of the book card-slips pro-ride. The work of the Library, especially the receiving and issuing of books, can now be carried on rapidly and easily.

In the selection of new books the Committee has taken especial care. Lists of books are made monthly by the Secretary from lists sent in by members of the committee and of the Poard, from suggestions by the public, from notices in the leading English and American reviews, and from announcements of the principal English, American and Canadian publishers. These lists are typewritten and sent to each member of the Committee some days before their regular meeting. The Committee make their selection from the lists, another report is sent to the Board for their approval or revision. Over 1500 books have been considered by the Committee of this year and some 600 books have been placed on the shelves. The Committee have endeavored to pay due regard to all classes of readers and gladly welcome suggestions from any inter-ested in books. In the selection of the periodicals for 1900, the Committee have endeavored to recognize growing relations with the Mother Country nd with the U.S. accordingly placed on the tables the Spectator and the Outlook, two great English weeklies, and the N. that arises in a library like ours is to determine the kind of catalogue, whether it is to be an ordinary or a c'a silled cala'ogue. The Comm'ttee has endeavored to combine both features. The History and Voyages selections are classified according to contries. Science and General Literature are purtly classified and partly alphabetical. Biography, Miscellaneous and Fiction are alphabetically arranged. Juvenile Boys and Poetry are alphabetically arranged by authors Juvenile Girls and Little Ones, Religion and Reference, are arranged consecutively. The documents, reports and pamphiets have been carefully classified and sub-classified. The general principle has been to make a catalogue that will be simple for the reader who wants fiction only or mosta catalogue that will be supported in a catalogue that will tell the more studious reader what the Library contains on a given subject, and that will be educative, especially to junior readers. Your Committee trust they have done

Your Committee trust these ends.
The Committee call special attention to the Juvenile department. Believing that the Beard of a Public Library has a grave responsibility in the matter of juvenile literature, the Committee has endeavored to form a Juvenico department that will counteract the permicious reading so widely circulated among our boys and girls. (The Library contained many books of interest to the jun'ors, but they were scattered through Fiction, Voyages, General Literature and Macollaneous and other departments. These have been gethered into one section, and a large number of the litest jurcuites added. These, again, have been arranged in three departments of the large of the large section. ments, so that now we have 228 Boys.
37 Girls and 25 Little ones. This last class is intended for little folks of from 4 to 10 years of age, and has Leen found to very popular. The Committee wish here to publicly thank the husiness men and others whose adver-tisements materially lightened the cost of the catalogue.

The report of the circulation, the maintership and the cash receipts from m intership and the cash receipts from the Library are herewith given in detail. These statistics will be found grantifying, and serve to show how great, a hold the Library has already gained with the town, and indicates in some way its future possibilities. The especially encouraging features are the membership among the children and the membership in the township, among the farmers and others.

The turning of the water into the Chicago canal Tuesday was a notable event in the world's history. For unnumbered centuries the water of the great lakes has found its way to the ocean through the St. Lawrence valley. Henceforth a portion of it, estimated at 300,000 cubic feet per minute, will go to the Gulf of Mexico via the Misgo to the Gulf of Mexico, via the Bits-sissippi Vatley. It is not exactly mak-ing water run up hill, but it is a tre-mendous change of direction. It is estimated that there will be plenty of water left to keep Niagara Falls equipped as an nttraction to sight-seys. ### PASSING OF STATUTE LABOR Municipalities Throughout Ontario are Abandoning the System.

The appointment of a Provincial Good Roads Commissioner was one of the most praiseworthy acts of the Provincial government in recent years, and has already led to a strong agtin-ation in almost every municipality in favor of better roads and a more systematic expenditure of the money devoted to road improvement.

Als might be expected, towns and villages have been the first to take villages have been the first to take action, but many progressive townships are discussing the advisability of commuting all statute labor and placing the repair of the roads in the hands of permanently appointed road foremen or superintendents, who will follow closely the method laid down by the provincial commissioner as the one beet adapted to local conditions. At the recent municipal election the At the recent municipal election the ratepayers of North Orillia township gave a majority of 90 in favor, of abolishing statute labor, and a numratepayers of North Orillia township gave a majority of 90 in favor, of abolishing statute labor, and a number of other municipalities in various parts of the province registered a similar decision at the same time. Speakag of the situation us it exists in North Orillia, and which may be considered fairly indeative of the conditions which prevail generally throughout the province, fir. A. W. Campbell, the provincial commissioner, said: The condition of the roads was not in keeping with the expenditure made on them, and it was time to rectify matters by changing the system. Without wishing to speak disparagingly of the statute labor system, he did not believe the people had money or labor to waste on the roads. He was convinced that statute labor, having served its purpose, could be of mo further benefit to Orillia township; acither did he think the old system could be recognized to the point of usefulness. People were, he said, deceived as to what road maintenance was actually costing under the present system. He had looked into the township's record of money spend on roads and found, that in addition to labor expended, there had been a money expenditure of $2,500 last year. The record for eight years was $17,173.26 expended, and from information he had received he learned that in ten years $21,400 had been spent in cash and $25,100 days of labor, in all 'nearly $50.000 in cash and its equivalent. At a far less outlay Orillia or any other township ought to have at least 100 miles of good roads. The township could not afford to pay one-third of its tax hill on roads it it was not productive of results, and it seemed to him that it was time to settle down and accomplish something."

We commend the above arguments to the corefut consideration of the council and tatopayers of Ops and other townships in this district.

Mr. Speucer Wilson, in The Morning Pest, points out that there is one division only at Chieveley, another at Prere and a third at Escourt. As Chieveley is seven mules from Colenso the second division would have to march 12 miles to get into action, and the third division 22 miles. Gen. Buller's 30,000 men and 70 guns were therefore almost inactive on Saturday, and when Gen. White hellographed Gen. Buller could really make no move but an ineffective demonstration.

England is proparing fresh armaments, and 22 transports will be on the way to South Africa during the present month. According to the program 25,000 additional troops and 72 guns will soon be aloat. The Government has ordered the Maxims to manufacture as many 3, inch and 6-inch quick firers as can be turned out until otherwise notified 25,000 Mare Men to Go.

London, Jan. 9. — Nothing has been received corroborative of the rumor that General Buller has crossed Tugela River, so the report must be taken with all reserve.

THE MODDER BRIDGED.

Third Brillish Pontonn Structure Across the River Completed.

Modder River, Jun. 6.—A balloonist this morning located new Boor trenches where two gurs had been mounted, three miles from Modder River. The Boers fired a shell from each of these guns in the direction of the guards and pickets yesterday afternoon, but they did no harm. Engineers have completed the third pontion bridge across the Modder River, inside the limits of the camp.

London, Jan. D. — A Private of the Kri-h Rifles who fought at Stormberg, in a letter to his home, says that when General Galacre saw the position the guide had led the troops into, he shot the guide dead with his own revolver.

The Transvall Hos Refused.

Woshington, D.C., Jan. 9.—It was learned conclusively by the State Department yesterday that the South African Republic will not recognize the United States Consul at Pretoria as the representative of British interests during the war in the Transvanl. The information is, however, that the refusal of the South African authorities is not based on unfriendiness to the Consul or to the United States, the declination resting rather on the broad ground that the Boers wish to recognize no representative whatever of British affairs during the hastilities.

New York, Jan. 9.—Latest mall advices from India aver that the situation there grows darker every week. Three millions are working on Government relief works. The sale of children by starving parents is becoming common. Families are breaking up, each member for himself, in search of food. Abandoned children are found frequently. It is famine of rater as well as food. Cattle are dying off in thosands, and no rain is now expected until June.

Capt. Dr. MacKay, Chief Quarantine Officer at Halliax, is confident that the Montezuma can be thoroughly cleansed and disinfected so as to make it perfectly safe against any return of typhoid. The Medical Board appointed to inquire into the typhoid fever outbreak on the Montezumawill be as follows: Dr. Montezumbert, Director-General of Public Health for Canada, presiding; Dr. McWatters, Imperial Principal Medical Officer; Dr. Tobin, Canadian P. M.O.; Dr. Farrell, representing the civilian medical profession, and a naval medical officer if he can be found. Owing to the approach of the session it is not likely that Lord Minto will be able to go to Halliax to witness the departure of the second contingent. An arrangement has been made to have the Mounted Police squadrons spend a few hours in Ottawa, parade through the city and be inspected by the Governor-General, n a few hours the desired number was chosen, passed the medical extinination, took the oath of enlistment and in the evening left for Quebic. Surgeon-Major Elhiott exercised the same care in selecting the men as he did in the other cases, and everyone that passed the examination is physically perfect.

KAWARTHA LAKES HOTEL ACCOMMODATION.

Now that the New Year's vacation and the elections are over, the Board of Trade should at once take intoconsideration the question of providing the hotel accommodation which will he so budly needed next season. If the G.T.R. brings any number of tourists here next season, as they probably will, if no provision is made to entertain them, the result will be desertous to the trade.

No doubt every person brought into, and provided for, in this district, will be a direct gain financially to the business men of Lindsay, and it will be certainly a great mistake if the trade which will surely come should be turned another way through our apathy to provide for it.

EVERY RATEPAYER INTERESTED

During the past summer The Post, with commendable enterprise, and at considerable expense, published in its columns the whole assessment roll of the town of Lindsay. Our object in doing so was to place before the people, doing so was to place delice the propies in concise form, the different assess-ments so as to permit them to judge if the various valuations had been made with that skill and firmness which should characterize a work of such importance as this is to the citt.

in the position we took—that several inequalities and defects were appur-ent to so considerable on extent as to convince our thoughtful citizens that steps should be taken by the council in the future to appoint only a person specially capable for the work.

We renture the opinion that the office of assertor was more important than that of Mayor of the corporation. inasmuch as those only fit ma-turally, as well as by education, should be appointed to fill that office. Many of the citizens as well as ourselves have had just cause for com plaint, for various reasons too numer-ous now to mention. We are not find-ing fault with the assessors of last year, because we think that they did the work to the best of their ability, with the time at their disposal, and for the salary paid to them.

We could never see the use for two assessors for Lindsay, as at present appointed, and have no hestation in saying that it would be just as satis-factory to the citizent if only one factory to the citizen if only one was a suitable man for the position.

Under the Municipal Act towns are permitted to appoint an Assessment Commissioner, who shall be a permanent officer of the corporation. If this were done by our council we think that, with a proper appointee, and with the time he should have at his disposal—practically the whole year with the time he should have at his disposal-practically the whole year—the work would be correctly and fairly done, and there would be very little if any, cause for further complaint. We respectfully submit that the council will full in their duty to the citizens if they do not at first opportunity grapple with this matter.

11-8. Intermediate Series.
A large and very enthusiastic crowd sunted freeday evening in Lindyset rank to witness the return teth to ween the Wellingtons, of tonion and Lindsay, in the O. H. A. Intermediate series. The game was one of the fastest played here, and the combination work of toth teams are excellent, but the home term proved equal to the occasion, and their rushes, checking and good shooting proved superior. The Wellingtons fought hardfor veltory, but Lindsay's defence proved impregnable.

This match started well on time, the ice was in the pink of condition, and the game was interesting from the foundation of the course. The match started well on time, the outset. In the first half the two terms kept almost even, the home team leading by one goal, but on claiming ends, the locals' incessant clausing ends, the locals' incessant sering discouraged the Toronto boys, and the playing, as a consequence, became a little rougher. Mr. R. Hamilton referred very satisfactorily; Mr. J. Milne, of Toronto, and Mr. F. Rankin, of Vancouver, B. C., officiated as time-keepers; and Mr. W. Cameron and Mr. Et. Knowlson dispensed justice as goal judges.

Central Fair

(To the Editor of The Post.) Sir,-There is going to be a meet ing of the South Victoria Agriculing of the South Victoria Agricultural Society on Jan. 17th, for the election of officers and the planning, probably, of the work for next fall's Central Fair. It seems to me that there needs a little more life instilled into the working of this society. The old hundrum way of carrying on these fairs will have to give way to more modern methods if we hope to make them a success. The special attractions at the Toronto Fair take thousand there who would come here and spend their money if our fair will worth anything, but the same old things are in evidence year after year and the people, like myself, get disgusted and stay away.

ple, like myself, get disgusted and stay away.

I would suggest, as a remedy for this state of affairs, that a strong committee of the citizens of Lindsay be appointed by the Agricultural Society to handle the special attractions, and the purely agricultural part of the fair be managed by the excultive of the scoiety. The cilizens are putting up a guarantee fund and a large amount towards the annual working of the fair—much more than the results justify. We ought to have five times as many people in Lindsay every year at the Central than we get, simply from the fact that the special attractions which year after year are more and more the thandrawing cards, are not of such a nature as to bring the people. Try my plan, gentlemen of the Agricultural Society—I will guarantee it will work to the greatest advantage.

—Yours, etc.,

The Times says The Mother Country shares with Canadians and the Australians the pride and gratification at the fine qualities displayed in the dashing little engagements. The exenduct of both contingents was most soldierly, and is an earnest of what the behaviour of all colonial forces will be on many a hard-fought lie'd under the old flag.

The Standard says that from the point of view of Imperial unity, the cuttle fight at Sunnyside was one of the most gratifying events recorded in the recent history of the British are.

The Dally News says that faccolines did not go into this war as I they were going to a pienic or avade; they went prépared and oping to fight, and if need he to it is to be to the same of the

The Globe says that this brilliant feat of arms has a special consequence of its own apart from the immediate tactical gains. The soldiers of the Empire have again fought and bied together. The chief share of the glory falls to fellow-subjects who have hurried from the opposite ends of the world to uphold the Queen's Imperial authority.

The St. James' Gazette says that the colonials fought with the coolness, bravery and judgment that goes without saying. From their methods the regular soldiers from home may learn a useful lesson. It is a military reason that Sunnyside is not to be forgotten.

London, Jan. 8. — (4.50 a.m.) —
The British is at last face to facewith a critical moment in the campaign. It may safely be said that at no previous time has there been such anxious hours of suspense as will be passed through until the arrival of further news regarding the fate of Ladysmith.

Joubert thought It Was Safe.

Little doubt remains as to the meaning of the Boer attack. A despatch from the Boer camp at Colembo, dated Thursday last, and sent by way of Lorenzo Marques, menions that a thunderstorm had turned the dry ravines into torrents and flooded the Tugela. Boubtless General Jonbert fell sure he had secured a couple of days in which he could attack Ladysmith without inteference from General Buller, and who oven if he decided to attempt to relieve the town, would probably occupy three days in reaching it by even a victorious advance.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 12, 1900

THE FARMER'S "GROWING TIME.

The annual report of the Bureau of Industries for Ontario is filled with interesting statistics relating to the agriculture of the province. The total value of farm property in Ontario in 1895 is given as 8923,022,422, divided as follows: Farm land, $556, 246,569; buildings, $210,051,396; implements, $52,977,232; live stock, $103,-944,288. The total value of farm properly in 1897 was $905,093,613. Last year the value of farm lands showed the first improvement since 1886. The average value per acre last year was 839.46, or an increase of 71 cents over 1897. This is the first increase in ten years, and is positive proof of agri-cultural prosperity. Still greater good may be expected from the policy outlined by Premier Ross.

The value of farm buildings in the Province was placed at upward of $210,000,000, as compared with $206, 500,000 for the previous year, a greater increase than has been recorded since 1893. In farm implements there has been an increase equally satisfactory and equally suggestive of agriculture prosperity. The aggregate value of farm implements in Ontario at the close of 1898 was almost $53-000,000, which is considerably more than a million and a half in advance of the value recorded a year earlier. The total valuation of all farm property in Ontario at the close of the year 1898 is estimated, in round numbers, at $923,000,000, an advance of about $18,000,000 in one year.

The rural area assessed in 1898 was 23,394,584 acres, or 32,156 acres more than in the preceding year. Last year there were 12,993,614 acres of clear-ed land, an increase of 140,533 acres. There were 7,294,026 acres of woodland last year, a decrease of 95,000 acres; 3,200,005 acres of swamp or marsh land, a decrease of 13,000 acres; 2,708,013 acres in pasture, à decrease of 49,798 acres, and 8,635,272 acres under crop, an increase of 133,567 acres. The yield per acre in fall wheat was 24 bushels, in 1898, or 3.5 bushels, more than the average for 17 years; although fall-ing short by 1.2 bushels of the record

In 1898 there wer: 1,187 cheese factories in Ontario, an increase of 26. There was a decrease, however, in the make of cheese of over nine million pounds from the great output of 1897, but the season of 1893 leads 1895, the

OUR MARCHING

I saw the might of our Empire I saw the might of our Empire
In a dream, as the foggots sank;
I heard the heart of a nation
Pulse out from reak to reak;
I felt the weight of their marching
And I heard their harness clank;

Clank of the metal traces-And heavy guns replied; Clank of the lilting sabres Swinging along the side; Foot, and horse and guns, And my heart was mad with pride.

Righland and Lowland men, And men from the Outer Sens; Bruve hearts for England's heart— True hearts from the Colonies; Shoulder to shoulder they won! With the red dust to their Ences.

I saw in the roads before them Fortress and burricade, And a people who cried defiance— Sullen and unafraid; Then I beard the voice of the Empire Roll back to the last brigade.

I saw the gay, red tunics Swing forward, rank on rank, I saw the gay, straight Lancers Spur hillward, neck to flank, I heard the gunners' curses And I heard the harness clank.

PROGRESS OF RELIGION IN THE UNITED STATES.

Great Army of Rol'g our Fel ever.

The New York Independent for last, week contains its usual annual statistics of the American church, from which it appears that in 1899 the number of ministers was 153,901, of churches 187,803, and of members 27, 710,004.

According to this table the membership increased during the year at about 1 per ent. and increasing only 421 and for the total of 187,803. Four Nurses Selected.

The delay on the part of the War Office in an wring Hon. Dr. Dorden's query asking whether or not nurses would be accepted with the second coatingent gave rise to the impression that none would go. A cablegram has been received from the War Office, however, stating that four nurses might be sent, and the selection has been made as follows: Chief, nurse, Miss Hercun, manager of Perley Institute, Ottawa; Miss Horne of 98 St. Urban street, Montreal; Miss Margaret Macdonald of Dayley's Brook, Fictou County, N. S., and Miss Percy Richardson, daughter of Judge Richardson of Regina. Dr. Vaux of St. Luke's Hospital, Ottawa, and formerly of Toronto, has been appointed as a supernumerary medical officer for general work with the second contingent, permission having been received for the appointment. Dr. Vaux's duties will correspond to those of Dr. Osborne of Hamilton, who went with the first contingent, and his rank will be that of Lleutenant.

A Young Man Killed While Examining a Revolver,

Montreal, Jan. 6.—About 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon a youth named Dube, about 17 years of age, was accidentally shot at the factory of the James Robertson Company, Limited. He was at once taken to the Notre Dame Hospital, where about 2.25 p.m. he died. Dube was in Robertson's on business. While purchasing in one of the departments a young employe showed him a revolver. He placed a cartridge in it to show how the cartridge worked, when it accidentally went off, the bullet striking him in the head. The boy who fired the shot was arrested by detectives and taken before the coroner, who, after hearing his statement, permitted him to go free for the time being.

Mr. Wimas Denies It.

New York, Jan. 6.—A letter from Erastus Wiman contradicts the widely-published statement made by his ussignee. David Bennett King, that his estate would pay less than a cent on the dollar. Mr. Wiman says that out of $530,000 indebtedness in a list furnished by his assignee, that over $320,000 have been liquidated, secured or adjusted, largely from collateral in the hands of creditors at the time of making their advances. This, he further says, leaves out of the question the holdings of real estate on Staten Island, consisting of an acreage larger than any holder within 10 miles of the New York

"The Merchant of Venice"

Lindsay theatre-goers enjoyed a rare treat last Friday, when Shakes peare's greatest comedy, "The Mer-chant of Venice," was presented by the Lyceum Company, embodying capable New York artists. The audience was large and select, and the theatre was warm and comfortable, so that all were in a condition to enjoy the play to the utmost. We will not attempt an extended criticism of the various parts, but any reference would be incomplete without priticular mention of Miss Eftic Hext, the reading lady, as Portia, and Mr. Edouard D'O'ze, vis Shylock—they lived their parts, and the court of justice scene was thriling in its concentrated interest. The support was excellent, and the costumes rich and appropriate. arge and select, and the theatre was

A Mishap in the Flavelle Bros Mill En-gine Room Caused Trouble.

A rather serious break-down took dace early last Monday at the Sadler, place early last Monday at the Sadler, Dundas & Flavelle Co. mil on Kentst., east. After starting up the eargine Mr. Massaw left the engine room and went into the mill to turn an and adjust the steam heating apparatus. Noticing something wrong in the working of the machinery he ran back to the engine room and louad the engine standing stock-still. The rope drive extending from the main driving pulley to the line shafting had for some unknown reason jumped out of the grooves in the large pulley and had wound itself hard and fast around the engine shaft above, and torn up various pipes and fittings beneath the floor of the engine room.

The main exhaust pipe leading to the condenser was broken, making it necessary to send to Galt for the repairs. Mr. Bell, the miliwright, and Messrs. The Post pointed out recently the necessity of providing better premises and accommodation for the Public Library. On Saturday evening the Library was so crowded that it was next to impossible to find standing from. to impossible to find standing room, and meny persons desiring to change books had to wait over three-quarters of an hour before they could get near the wicket to be served. The senting accommodation is emirely madequate and chould be increased at once. We suppose that the Library Board never anticipated anything like the present increased use of the Library, and for that reason have to some extent here acquait unprepared to meet it. It is, however, certain that larger and more convenient rooms will have to be secured at once. Everyone connected with the institution appear to be doing what they can to make the Library as useful to the people as possible, and we are sure they will take the matter referred to in hand at the earliest possible moment.

A little invostigation on the part of the council may reveal some other matters in connection with this kind of work which they are not aware of, and it can do no manner of harm for our town fathers to learn what is teing done along these lines elsewhere.

A combination has been formed between the legal firms of McLaughlin & McDiarmid, of this town, and Dick-& McDiarmid, of this town, and Dickson & Juhnston, of Toronto, Mr. Dickson having decided to remove immediately to British Columbia, where he has considerable mining interests, leaving the firm altogether, and the Foronto firm will hereafter be McLaughlin & Johnston. store and Post Office at Englemore Entered on New Year's Eve.

A burglary was committed at Englemore on Sunday night last, New Year's eve. The premises of Mr. D. J. Scollard, postmaster, who also keeps store in connection, were entered and a quantity of candies stolen and others were thrown about the place. Mr. Scollard states that at present he does not know his exact loss. The thieves gained entrance by cutting out a pame of glass and then evidently used a lever to pry up the har by which the door was fastened. The matter was not discovered till the morning when Mr. Scollard found the door open, and there was no trace of the thieves. It is thought that the act was committed by local parties and an effort's being made to discover them and bring them to justice.

THE SKATING RINK.

Lindsay's Winter Pleasure Report.

The skating rink, under the management of Mr. Jos. Parkin and he able assistant, Mr. Geo. Coombes, is again open to the public for the ... again open to the pume for the sesson. Up to the present there has been a larger number of season tickets sold than for any previous year. The band has been engaged for two nights in the week, and during the winter it is the intention to introduce many new features for the comfort and amusement of the patrons of the rick.

many new fettlers to the control and amusement of the patrons of the rink.

A good deal of complaint was made last year that at hoskey matches, carnivals, etc., the lack of proper senting accommodation prevented spectators from getting a good view of any of the events which took place. Mr. Parkin has remedied all this. At the west end of the rink elevated scats have been built for about 300 persone, and wire meshes have been erected at both ends to prevent accidents during hockey matches. The ice is in capital condition and any one desiring the enjoyment of a good skate can have the same to his or her hockey match of the season will take place between Cobourg and the home tam, and a hot game and good play is anticipated. After the hockey match of the season will take place between Wes. Henders and Pere. McDonald, two local flyers.

ers During the winter, weather permit-ting, the rink will be open during the usual hours for the accommodation of skaters won by the local seven by 6 to 4, the score at half-time being 2 to 0.

The game was a firet-class exhibition of hackey, considering the length of time the teams have had to get into shape, the Wellingtons showing the better form. The game started of with a rush by the Wellingtons and in a few minutes they had notched up the first game. Ardugh doing the trick on a clean shot. This was followed by another by McCord, while the rest of the half was spent in both teams playing hard to score.

On changing ends, for the first temminutes it was all Lindsay. They scored the first two games and evendup the score. Then McCord tallied two in quick succession and soon another was scored from a scrimmage in front of Lindsay's goal. In two minutes more more Lemaitre scored the Wellington's last game, while flaylor added another for the visitors, leaving the totals 6 to 1 thus giving the home team a lead of two goals on his return match. The teams were; Wellingtons (6); Goal, Morrison; point, Smart; cover-point, Ardagh; forward, Moffatt, Lemaitre, Mörrison, McCord.

Co., got his arm caught in some knives connected with the planing machines in the company's mill. Before assistance arrived the young man's arm had suffered frightful mutilation, the entire forearm being denuded of flesh to fully one half its circumference and length. Little hope was entertained at the time of saving it.

Drs. Thomsom and Leask, of Waubaushene, and Dr. Frank Porter, of Toronto, held numerous consultations on how to save the arm and avoid amputation, the result of which was that the father, sister and brothers of the boy willingly agreed to the suggestion to allow the surgeons to cut some flesh from their own bodies for purposes of grafting and thus save the arm of the son and brother. The boy himself was also willing to take advantage of the doctor's suggestion.

A Danger Signal.

Just as the lightbuoy is a signal of danger to sailors, and the red light to railway men, so has nature equipped individuals with danger signals of one kind or another when their physical condition is not quite right. It may simply be a tired feeling, a slight cold, weakness of the muscles, fickle appetite or some other sign-light at first-which indicates that your condition is not a healthy one. If the danger signal is not heeded, serious results will follow and a complete collapse may occur. In nine cases out of ten the direct cause of the trouble is impoverished blood, or weak nerves. You need something to brace you up to make your blood rich and your nerves strong. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine that can do this promptly and effectively. They strengthen from first dose to last.

Mr. John Siddons, London, Ont., says:—"I can speak most favorably of the virtue of Dr. Williams' Plak Pills They prove invaluable in strengthening and toning up the system when debilitated. Sensible, earnest talk is what counts in temperance work, not accusation and denunciation. Work persistently and patiently, not with fits and starts and noise. We must convert people to our way of thinking; we cannot coerce, except by law. Allow men time to think; the case is pressing, dear knows, but we cannot take every body into camp in a day.

When Great Britain has a fee to overcome, she recruits an overwhelming army. This is what Prohibitionist must do to overthrow the liquor traffic. Oom Paul made preparations day after day for twenty years, until from being almost helpless aguinst a few natives he is now able to tackle the British Empire. This is another example for us of the patience and faithful work which brings great strength.

Fromk Werke, Niagara Falls, would not work. He would not do anything but drink and ill-freat his wife. These things he would overdo. On the other hand his unhappy wife was an industrious woman, and besides feeding him sha managed to pay for a little home where she lived, and where Werke lived when he was hungry or wanted sleep. Nov. 29 he, went home drunk and killed her. He tirst hammered her until the poor woman was stunned and bleeding, and then took a big kaife and plunged it into her neck. Then the cowardly, drunken fiend attempted to escape to the United States, but was lodged in juil. He has since attempted suicide in juil, with a broken Lottle.

Hon Sydney Fisher Reviews the Situation and Gives Some Good Advice to Farmers-Need for Improvement in Live Stock.

In the excellent Christmas number which has been issued by the Farmers' Advocate, appears an interestney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, the "Agricultural Situation and Outlook for the Domin'on." Mr. Fisher writes as follows:

Fisher writes as follows:

The year 1890 has been a prosperous one for agriculture in Canda, and the commerce in its products.
Our farmers generally have received an unusually large amount of money for their year's work, and this money has been well distributed over all sections of the country, and all branches of the industry. I feel, therefore, that I can congratulate the readove of the Farmers' Advocate on the ors of the Formers' Advocate on the census and practically the same pro-portion is still true. Without count-ing pasture grass, but taking the grace weight of all other crops, twenty-five twenty-sixths of our total crop yield is used, in Canada, and of this five rixths is used to feed animals. Including pasture grass, we can say in round figures that con-siderably more than five-sixths of all results of the season.

Let us take a little survey of our crops. First, let us take up wheat.

The price has been fair to good, The price has been fair to good, though not abnormal. The yield per acre in Manitoba and the North-west has been only average, and that in Ontario no greater. Yet, in consequence of a great increase of area in the newer parts of the Dominion, the aggregate value of the product has been profelly the greater to our levelor.

corn, hay and grass, much the same can be said, though as most of these crops is consumed on the farm or in ocal markets, we have no such accur ate data of yield and price. The season has been very dry in some parts of the country, and in others there have been periods of the year when the crops were almost drown-ed out. This has occasioned some local or special deficiencies, but the toried or special deficiencies, but the varied character of our agriculture and the great extent of the Dominion have made these of small moment; and again I say that the season's crops on the great Canadian Larm which stretches from, the Atlantic to he Pacific have been most satisfac

THE LIVE STOCK BUSINESS

Let us now examine the live-stock business which exists by virtue of the props that our farm has produced. Here we find an even more satisfac-tory state of affairs. The prices for attle of all classes have been unusually good; the damand has been brisk even eager, during most of the season, and all over the country, every Canadian stock owner has had an opportunity of disposing, at remners tive prices, of every animal he has been willing to sell. It is true the been withing to sell. It is true the export of live stock to Europe by the St. Lawrence port has seriously fallen off, but this year's record of this trade does not tell the whole truth. Space in ships on the St. Lawrence was so scarce and dear for some time at the beginning of the season that reary Canadian animals went to Europe Canadian animals many Canadian animals went to Eurmany Canadian animals went to Europe through United States ports. The United States demand was so keen and such good prices were obtained in that market, now open to us through the removal of quarantine, that the Canadian stock raiser was not obliged to ship across the Atlantic to make good profits. Althurt there to make good profits. Althugh there were not so many as usual of North-west cattle going to Europe, there was a very large sale of cattle from the ranches in the home market, and the best prices in many years was realized. It is also stated, I believe with truth, that over 30,000 head of cattle were sold from Ontario alone to go to the United States this season while a constant stream of stockers and young females has been crossing the international boundary between Quebec and New England during the whole year, at prices which have been most tempting.

The demand for sheep and lambe has been good, and prices better than for years. Notably has this been the case in the Northwest Territories, where there seems to be a great opening in certain sections for further sheep breeding. I am sure that sheep should receive more attention sheep should receive more attention all over Canada.

Good horses have fetched good pricess and if our export to Europe this fallen off, it seems rather due to the scarcity of the right kind of ani-mal than to the lack of a fair demand.

As to the sale of hogs from the farm, we have a somewhat different picture to look upon. The prices have ruled lower than for several years. Still the production has been very large and the aggregate sum brought to the farmers from the sale of hog pro-ducts is probably the largest over known in Canada. To those who have applied the best methods of care and feeding, even the low prices of this season have brought a fair profit, while the increased manure piles and the utilization of by-products of the dairy have, through the raising, and fattening of these hogs, helped the whole business of farming very makerially

We must not omit a reference to the egg and poultry industry. In both of these the output is the largest in our history, and the year's prices are on the whole satisfactory. The position of our products in thr English markets has been greatly improved.

Two none of your bold, impertinent kniles, most to our products in the English markets has been greatly improved.

Itst, if appears to me that we Candidian farmers may renew and strengthen our confidence in our country, our business and ourselves. The success of the season is due to a wide area of fertile soil and a healthy, temperate climate; to natural conditions favorable to the best development of a sturdy industry, and to the full advantage of these conditions. Secondly, it is evident that our greatest profits, our most noted progress, have been in the live stock branches of our farming. To under,

The same has to a large extent been the history of the cattle; and one will find in the same parish, and even the same hard, every imaginable cross of half the well-known breads, but no uniform type and no cretainly as to what the future generations of these whil the future generations of these cattle will be under a continuance of this system. In Maine, the Morgan horse was produced by the intelligent crossing of the English thorough-break and the above mentioned French-Can-adian mare. The result, was a large-ty-spread class of horses, the best in the world for light buggy driving, especially on hilly roads. But they have been improved out of existence by induscriminate crossing with several sorts of imported stallions, until now hardly any good typical animals are to be found in their old domain. I am satisfied that one of the most important maxims to be kept continunlly before our stockmen is to bree to a well-chosen type, and one of the mest important rules to be understool by those having any influence in stock mattern, is to secure and keep to a uniform type for each locality of our country. To-day a fair start has been made in certain sections in the breeding of certain classes of stock. It hood famous for whatever class stock it may be that prevails there.

single exception of cheese, we consum much more of every class of animal products at home than we send abroad. Even of lutter, notwith-rtending the recent great increase of our trade, we still eat twice as much at home as we export.

With the present undoubtedly large increase of our population, and the extraordinary prosperity of the country, our people are no doubt coasuming a much greater proportion of animal food than they did in 189; and therefore, the present relative impor-A GOOD MARKET LOST. One of the most deplorable practices in connection with breeding is to things the type of the male animal. If, for instance, in cattle, a man has started with a Shorthorn bull, it is supposed that he wishes to produce seither a beef animal or a general pur-pose animal tending lowards meat production. If a year or two after-wirds he discards his Shorthorn bull and taken to a Jersey, he certainly and takes to a Jersey, he certainly is not improving his position, and, fo', lowing such a practise, he can never make a name for himself or his herd for any particular excellence; while if he had continued in the line of the Fhorthorn qualities, intell.gent work would soon have made him a reputation and brought him buyers from everywhere, and consequently better prices.

will have several different herds to choose from rather than where there is only one isolated herd of a particular class. And this is true, not only of cattle, but of the other classes of our live stock. I think I may venture to instance horse breeding in C nada as a glaring example of the future to breed to a type. Some years ago a distinguished army officer; was sent to this country to see if a purchasing station for the English army could be established in Canada. Heaufortunately, found no section of the country where the class of horses that he wanted could be purchased in any quantity. To day the English purchasing officers for the army are on the lookout the world over for cavalry and artillery horses. They are not tempted to come to Canada, because our horses are such a mixture of all sorts of breeds that they could not pick up in a chort time in this country a sufficient number of suitable animals to make it worth their while to come. In saying this, I fully appreciate that we have a certain number of very excellent horses in Canada, and that there are some men who have done great service to Canadan horse breeding; but the general principle on which most of our owners of brood mares have gone has been to mix up with every conceivable breed in the product, with a result that is disagtrous.

In my official position, as Minister charged with the care of the agricultural interests. I have felt that the live-stock problem was one of the most difficult of solution, and therefore requiring most particular attention. It was with this in view that I secured from parliament an additional sum of money to be devoted to the branch of the Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying, and have created a new office in that branch of my department. Your readers, I am sure, will sympathize with me in the satisfaction I feel in having obtained the services of Mr. Ft. W. Hodson, as Live Stock Assistant in the branch of the Commissioner of Agriculture and Dairying. Mr. Hodson's experience amongst the live stock associations of ily and systematically, for a long course of years, bred to a certain type which was found to have the best and most profitable qualities for that neighborhood or that market.

My observation leads me to believe that our people have very little appreciation of the importance of breeding systematically to a type. It is true that here and there, scattered all over Canada, but chiefly in Ontario, we have men renowned, not only in Can-ada, but in other countries, for their

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL

A New and Bhorter Route from Rice Lake to Lake Cutarto Discovered-A Fles for Delay in Constructing the Trent Sections Until the New Route is investigated.

Evening Guide a question is discussed which is of the otmost importance to this section of the country. Our readers are sware that the Trent Valley canal, the construction of which has been urged with anch persistence for the past forty years, is a work which is intended to connect the waters of Lake Huron at Port Severn on Georgian Bay with that of Lake Ontario at Trenton, on the Bay of Quinte.

The advocates of the acheme, who are Treaton, the proposed terminus of the canal.

The Guide contends that the construction of the canal from Rice Lake to Trenton via the Trent river will be a very coatly affair, estimated at upwards of $25,000,000, and points out what is news indeed to the public, ourselves included, that a perfectly feasible route exits from Rice Lake to Like Outario at Port Hope, fourteen miles in length, and estimated to cost about $15,000.00. From Port Hope to the Bay of Quante is less than 30 miles, with five good harbons in that distance, and would certainly be more descrable navigation than 50 miles or more of the circuitous lower Trent. If there is any such difference as the Guide estimates in the cost of construction in favor of the Port Hope route, chen the canal should sertainly run that way for many reasons.

One of the great drawbacks to the successful working of the canal was likely to be the lack of return cargoes to the distance from the Pennsylvania coal mines is less than 200 miles, and at Oak O chard, on the south side of Lake Ontario to the channel of Navigable Lakes by which this section of country in direct rail connection with the mines. Cal is the one article above all others to provide the return cargoes. With the outlet of the canal at Port Hope return cargoes are assured. The dustance from Toronto to any point on the canal via Port Hope would be shout 100 miles less than via Trenton, which, too, is a very important matter to places along the line of the canal.

It appears that as early as the year 1833 the texture from Rice Lake was arr.

cheaply built goute exists, as claimed by the Guide.

The following are some of the distances covered by both routes, which will be valuable for the purpose of comparison. From mouth of 0 onabee river in R celluke t. We had some ado to conceal our relief and vast satisfaction.

"But there were others?" resumed the captain, after a little. "Irefer not to the poor don, for we know he is slain, but how as to his wife? Aye, and there was an old-servant." "Both dead, likewise," said Cradde.

We questioned him a little further, but brought out nothing of present moment. The old don, as we had supposed, proved to have been slain while trying to escape. The dinner ended, we presently parted with Cradde, and in a little time—avoiding an appearance of baste—returned again to the beach. Here it was now intensely hot, but we continued till we came to an old boathouse, in the shadow of which we sat down. Our falk ran on at some but we continued till we came to an old boathouse, in the shadow of which we sat down. Our talk ran on at some length, but there is no need that I should give more than the substance. The chief thing was that we were resolved to have done with Morgan and his crew. We were also of one mind—though this, indeed, was pretty desperate—to deliver, if we could, the poor Lady Carmen.

"Well, thên," said Mr. Tym, when we had reached this point, "these generals being settled, let us to the details. Speaking after a broad fashion, for we may not yet lay exact plans, seeing that we do not know all the facts, I coursed some swift and audacious proceeding. Say to watch our opportunity, and, having quietly forced the lady's deor, slip Mer boldly out under the buccancer's noses? Remember, she will be disguissed."

"But now a bit further. Say you have you fly? It may not be possible to procure borses, and afoot would be too might challenge us."

"Weil, then," said the captain, "why seek to go by land? Why not by water?"

"By water?" said I, in some sur-prise. "Is not that still more bazard-ous? Besides, where can we come by a suitable boat?"

That," said Sellinger, "would be no it. Betwixt now and sundown I warrant I can lay hold on one that will suit our purpose. "Whither would you go?" asked Mr.

Tym. "Well, perhaps to Delasco, which is a place but a few leagues to the south, or to Buenaventura, which may be two hundred," answered the captain. "I suppose these or any other be two hundred," answered the captain. "I suppose these or any other would serve."

We went into the matter a little further, but in the end came to the captain's plan.

"Then do you go now," he asked, "and try to find out the location of the senorita's room, and likewise fetch what you can of stores and water. Doubtless you can obtain enough for the purpose, as we are not likely to make a long voyage, and, moreover, there may be somewhat of the kind aboard. Meanwhile I will search for the craft herself."

OF THE PROGRESS OF OUR PLAN.

OF THE PROGRESS OF OUR PLAN.
On the way to the castle we came to a resolution as to the fashion of our proceeding. Mr. Tym was to spy out the whereabouts of the senorita, and Mae Ivrach and I were to secure and conceal the stores. This done, we were to meet and take further counsel. Having concluded on this plan, we forthwith set about carrying it out. We parted just Inside the grat door—I mean that to the chief structure Itself—Mae Ivrach and I slipped around to the offices. Here we found the same confusion as before, only now there were fewer about, and having slyly secured two great sacks, we carried out such food as was at hand and speedily filled them. We took care to do this unobserved, though I think we might safely have been bolder, for those about were near all in liquor, or busied with their own concerns.

all in liquor, or busted with their own concerns.

We took the sucks to one of the rear offices and concealed them, and returned to the outer region of the court. We scarce expected to see Mr. Tyrn, or to learn that he had finished his part of the business, and in this we were not mistaken, for he did not at once appear. We lounged about, affecting little interest in what was doing (playing this part that we might fecting little interest in what was doing (playing this part that we might

Mr. Tym came out. He moved in an yet not overdoing his part, and so drew presently along to us. My pulse ran with some disorder, by this time, for the delay was trying, and, moreover, this was almost the heart of the business.

the business.
"All is well," he said, with a care-"All is well," he said, with a care-less-seeming nod—it was marvelous how my blood started in my veins at the words. "How fares it with the other?"

"Likewise well," I almost falteringly

"This is the gist of the matter," he said: "She is shut up in one of the first-story chambers. To reach it you pass up the chief staircase, and so by an outside passage. The chamber is at the end, and is directly above the outwork. It therefore overlooks the water."

outwork. It therefore overlooks the water."

"And kow learned you all this?" I asked. I scarce dared believe we had gotten so far along in the undertaking and nothing contrary happened.

"Why, pretty simply." he said, with a smile. "As I was passing through the hall I met Morgan, and, if you will credit ik, he delivered to me the whole matter."

This made me fetch a little breath.

credit it, he delivered to me the whole matter."

This made me fetch a little breath.
"It was an easy matter," went on Mr. Tym, coolly. "I did but meet him, as I say, and after we had talked a little—he running on rather loosely, being somewhat in wine—he spoke of his own accord of the senorita. He praised her beauty and swore that it were a shame to deal with her save gently, and more to like purpose. I finally drew him on to disclose where she was, and this, I may say, I did easily. After some further talk, I took leave of him, and while he passed into one of the under rooms I descended to the dungeons. I did this that I might seem consistent, having declared that I had some small curfosity about these places. From the dungeons I came again to the hall and thence ventured to peep above-stars, where I found a again to the hall and thence ventured to peep above-stairs, where I found a man on guard, and so turned back. The fellow did not observe me, as I had approached softly and his altention was elsewhere, and this I was glad of, as I did not wish to arouse his suspicions. I could think of nothing more that might profitably be done, and so I returned hither."

"Why, I count that excellen!" I said.

expectation."
"I grant you," said Mr. Tym. "But now, since we have made an end here, let us see if we can learn how it fares with the capitain. In truth, I have some anxiety."
So, indeed, did Mac Ivrach and I, and I may say that this matter was now uppermost in my mind since the other was concluded. We therefore dropped the discourse and set off once more for

As yet the captain was not in sight, though we senaued the water in all directions for him; wherefore we judged that he had not yet succeeded in his undertaken. At last, just as we were beginning to feel some disquiet, a small boot popper she appeared stanch, and would, he thought, be likely to do the work required of her.

"Very well, then," said Mr. Tym, when the matter had reached this stage, "we seem to want nothing now but to complete the details of our plan. Let us go at once about it."

We were at a good deal of pains here, debutting many things, but, after all, the matter sifted down to this: Toward the middle of the night, before the moon should rise—which it did now very late—we were to slip up to the passage leading to the senorities from me would explain what was afoot, and, having thrust the guard into the chamber and secured him there, we would quietly descend to the hall and boldly mas out. Of course, our main reliance must be upon the general enrelessness and disorder, and upon the fact that nothing of the business was suspected. As for the minor details, it seemed best that Mr. Tym should lead off, and at the point where he wished us to fall upon the soldier should make a certain prearranged sign.

By this time it was close upon sundown, and late enough for us to be thinking of returning to the eastle. In fact, we had still some preparations to make, such as bringing down the stores—not forgetting a breaker of water—and an extra supply of clothing and weapons. Included in the clothing must be some for the poor lady, though I was sorry that none of it could be of a sort suitable to her sex. We likewise thought of an from bar, or pry, with which to force the chamber door. All these matters, I will say in brief, we attended to, in no way encountering any mishap or seeming to arouse any suspicions. Finally, we hid the little skiff, and returned for the last time to the castle. It was now quite dark, the twilight in those parts being exceeding brief, and wanting no great while of the bour we had seed for our undertaking. This, it will be remembered, was the early part of the night, before the confusion and disorder were like to bave abuted, and ere yet it was moonrise. At last it wanted only a few minutes of nine, and us we deemed th

The door at the end of the passage stood open, and we caught a small glimmer of light and heard voices. Pushing on, though I confess with some uncasiness on my part (for I thought of Morgan), we presently found ourselves in the great hall. Here were perhaps a score of our fellows, the most sprawled about or sitting on the long table, and only four or five talking. A few had horns or fingons by them, and others were smoking, but I perceived that nearly the half cemed to be heavily asitep. Perhaps firee or four candles were burning. firee or four candles were burning, put in a cloud, indeed, by the tobacco snoke, and bringing out little of the immediate surroundings with distinctness. Of the persons who were talking, one lay flat on the table and, by the bandage about his head, should be wounded, and another paced up and down, his arm in a sling.

We were past them presently, none hailing us, and having gone out by the rearward door were at last in the hall of the stairs. I silpped alongside the captain, and he looked at me, the wonderment on lis face coming out, in the faint light. We were now close to the top of the flight, but as yet could not command the passage, the continued wall enting us off. Of a sudden I heard a soft, long step, and, the window above darkening, I looked up and saw Mr. Tym.

"All's well," he said, in a sharp whisper full of relief. "The coast Is clear."

This was such brave news that for an instant it fairly brought the captain and me to a standstilt. Yet only

The business wanted no more discussion, and quickly we were all before the door. A very faint bit of light came from the open keyhole, but all within was qulet. I touched my clibow to the senorita's to encourage her, and in this fashion we slipped softly along, and without hearing an alarming sound reached the head of the steirs. Here Mr. Tym halted, but after a glance began to descend, and we, catching the noises now plainer from below, but still bothing menacing, quietly followed. As before, we found this rearward hall safe and descredd. Mr. Tym gave a glance back at us, as though to see that all were ready, and with a bold step passed on and turned in at the door. Capt. Sellinger fell a careless pace or two behind and followed. I did not hesitate, but as I felt the lady tremble whispered to her to take heart, for there was but small danger, and so saying pressed her arm hard with mine, and with that we passed in. All was as we had left it. The baccaneers were still sitting or lying about, save he who nursed his arm and waked up and down, and the haze of the tobacco smoke continued. We marched down the hall, I, as most confess, in some perturbation, and made toward the vaulted passage. It seemed an interminable distance, but, to my tremendous relief, no attempt was made to stop us, and at last we passed safely inside. The first part of the strain was now over, and with a congratulatory look or two, but no words, for those were teo risky, we continued on and entered the court. Here we found the former disorder and confusion, some of the buccaneers straggling about laughing or roaring dunken soogs, some ordering the rams, and others in groups talkier.

For the reason that this quarter contained so little wealth, we were in the smaller danger of meeting straggling parties of our men, and, indeed, Mr. Tym here ventured to relax the pace a little, the which I was heartily glad of for the senorita's sake. We might now have taken to the beach, had we so minded, as we had come out to the water, but on the whole we thought It best otherwise, and so fetched yet again to the right, this continuing till the land once more widened, when I noted with joy that we were close upon the jetty.

The captain now hauled in his sheet, saying that we would not pass too near the ships (it is doubtful if any ships were really taken at the time the city fell. The purposes of the story, however, require the introduction of a few), and we began to run to the west. By this time we had made a considerable distance into the bay, and the outlines of the shore had gradually sunk to an even duskiness and indistinctness.

All seemed to be going to our minds, and, having concluded these observations, I turned to have a word with the senorita. She sat in her former place, anxiously regarding the shore, but turned, brightening a bit, upon my auxiously regarding the shore, but turned, brightening a bit, upon my

This total amount thus exported in 1898 was about 16000 codes, but from figures now available the export-for 1890 will be something less. This order in council is another illustration of this government's desire to retain for the people of Ontario the full profits resulting from the products of the forests, and will doubtless meet with the same approval as the order, relating to nickel and copper, which were passed some weeks since.

THE WAR AND THE CRITICS.

We must have every morning with our porridge all the latest war news served up by imaginative correspondents and fortitoo ready to provide for the emotional needs of a sensation-loving public. What happens yesterday on the Tugela or at Modder River is flashed all over the world, and a few lines of curt official despatches are supplemented by columns of criticism and advice. The eager expectation of the public, and their keen disappointment at failure or defeat, are natural evidences of their profound and patriotic interest in the great issue at stake. They should be more rationt; more self-contained; and more confident as to the result. As to that result, there can be no doubt. It may take many weary and anxious menths; our troups may have to sustain serious reverses; there may—there must be great losses in battle; but that the Boers will be ultimately conquered is a conviction from which no one who has carefully studied the situation and who has not been rendered nervous by newspaper sensations, has ever for a moment wavered. This is not to be said lightly, for the British nation has before it a most se-ious undertaking.

The engagements so far have all been minor ones. There has been no battle of possible; and new methods have to be even the second magnitude. Many disdevised. That our officers will devise new tactics, and that our soldiers will maintain the highest traditions of British valor, we can with confidence expect, but it will be a costly experience and a territory of engagements in which the cruel list of killed alone will run into the thousands. Before General Buller succeeds in driving the Boers from the Tugela and relieving the Boers from the Tugela and relieving Ladysmith we must prepare for days of a strong characteristic of the true Briton.

That is what War means, The "exper's" and "critica" have blamed. Gen. Buller for the failure at Colenso, and condemned Gen. Methuen for the drawn battle at Maggerfontein, following two or three brilliant successes. But in none of these did the killed number over two hundred. In the afternoon of the last day at Gettyeberg, it will be embered in Pickett's famous charge 6,000 or 7,000-or more than one man in three-were killed in half-an-hour-in a last desperate effort that was strongly opposed as hopeless by Gen. Longstreet. Like Gen. White after the Nicholson's Nek misadventure, Gen. Lee chivalrously the blame for the costly failure sasumed: the blame for the coally failure assumed; yet no military critic has retired him to the third rank because he did not adopt the flanking movement urged by Longatreet. 'NOTHING LIKE LEATHER When well put together."

One of the best of the latest poems written is that by Alfred Austin, poet-laureste, "Spartum Mothers." Owing to its poeulinr applicability at the present time to our own country, yes, merer, to our own district, whose mothers are showing Spartan fortitude, we are sure our readers will beer with us if we quote it in full:

When well put together."

We wish to inform those who have been waiting for our rush to be over, "Now let them come," and everyone slee who wants a good pair of Roots. The whole talk through the country is FORHERTS.

BOOTS; the whole cry is, "Rubbers are no good, therefore we must got Forbert's Boots—they keep your test warm and dry," We also make a covered Folt Long Boot, emperior to all others; they are a real frest protector. We invite everyone to call and ace them. We are the only manufacturers of that line of goods.

It doesn't matter where you buy your boots—bring in your repairs; you can get them done neatly and durably, for we keep everything to make them so.

Ottawa, Jan. 15. — The Toronto Mounted Rilles need not prepare to say good-bye to the people of the Queen City for night, perhaps tea, days. And the olicers and men of "C" Battery are in exactly the same position as regards the citizens of Kingston. On Saturday night Col. Hubert Foster, Gon. Hutton's Chief of Staff, made the foregoing announcement. The delay is occasioned by the refusal of the Medical Board, appointed to inspect the Monteauma, to advice the Government that it was safe to sond troops in a vessel that so lately carried victims of typhoid fever. The Medical Board was composed of Drs. Montizambert of the Department of Agriculture, Farrell, Tobin and the principal medical officers of the British warships stationed at Hallifax. Dr. Montizambert, it is said, was the only member of the board to have any doubt expectating the safety of sending the troops in the Montezuma, but his word was law, and the Milita Department has de eduction with a view to making arrangements for a new trainsport, but so far no ship has been secured. The Messrs, Allian have offered the Californian and Numidian, neither of which is at present in port, but both will be available within a few days.

Secretary of State for War Bas Decided to Accept It.

London, Jan. 15. — The Associated Press learns that Lord Lansdowne, Secretary of State-for War, accepted on Saturday the offer of Lord Strathcona, Canadian High Commissioner in London, to provide, distinct from the Canadian contingents, a force of at least 400 mounted men from Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and British Columbia, and to arm, equip and convey them to South Africa, at his own expense. All will be expert marksmen, rough riders and scouts. It is estimated that the offer will involve an expenditure of £200,000. The War Office regards Lord Strathcona's proposal as an extraordinary proof of colonial patriothin.

Lord Methuen's health, according to the Daily Mall, has braken down, and the field marshal may relieve lim. Possibly some others will be relieved of important commands. There is certainly plenty of rank in evidence in South Africa. In addition to the field marshal, there are two full generals, four lieutenant-generals and 12 or 14 major-generals.

Suffolk Regiment Lost More Heavily Tha Retains His Position-No List of Casualties Yet - Mr. Bulfour's Stirring Speech - Thunder-er's Reply.

London, Jan. 10.—(4.30 a.m.)—
The War Office has not contributed the least particulars as to what has been taking place in Natel since Sunday. Neither has it allowed the despatches of 'correspondents to get through. Consequently the facts of the situation are replaced by conjectures, and the impattence of the public pours itself into a discussion of this confluct of the war, and of what might have been done or ought now to be done.

The Admiralty, in seeking transports, is said to have chartered the American Liner St. Paul, which was inspected previous to chartering, and three Liverpool steamers.

The Government's defence, as put forth by Mr. Balfour at Manchester, to-day, has not produced an agreeable impression upon the country. The Standard, Thues and St. James' Onzette join in the almost unanimous metropolitan and provincial disapproval.

A War Office compilation of casual-ties, issued last evening, shows a to-tal of 7,213—1,027 killed, 3,675 wounded and 2,511 missing. These do not include 140 who have suc-cumbed to disease nor the casualties at Ladysmith last Saturday.

Mr. Balfour Speaks Again.

Jondon, Jan. 10. — Mr. Arthur J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury, speaking last evening in East Manchester, suid: "I know of no war in which Great Britain has engaged, except that resulting in the independence of the American colonies, which did not end triumphantly. Yet I do not know of one which has begun triumphantly. True, the war in South Africa is disappointing, buf its not a fact that Great Britain has suffered exceptional reverses or great desaster. On the other hand the war has knit together every branch of the English speaking race, making all feel that they have a great com-Mr. Balfour Speaks Again.

of the English speaking race, making all feel that they have a great common destiny which it is their duty to accomplish.

"There are those which ought to support us in far greater trials than any this war may produce. Remember that a nation which cannot bear defeat is a nation unworthy of Empire, and although defeat has not yet come, and although we hope and helleve it will not come in the course of the present war, yet if matters should turn out otherwise, we should still rely on the courage and patriot-ism of our countrymen."

Times Comes Out Hot.

London, Jan. 10. — The Times, in an editorial based upon Mr. Balfour's declarations yesterday, severely criticazes the Government, and says: "It is fortunate for the Government that when Parliament meets it will only have to face the weak Opposition. If the shortcomings now revealed had been revealed in war with a first-class European power, the nation would not have been consoled by statements such as Mr. Balfour has been making. "It is neither becoming nor prudent, after what has happened, for a Minister to declare, as Mr. Belfour did, that he does not feel that he need apologize on behalf of the Covernment. It would be better for the country and for the Ministers themselves if the latter frankly owned that they had made a mistake, pleaded extenuating circumstances, and pledged themselves to a serious offort to reform, all which has been proved wanting."

The Queen's Government find themselves wholly unable to acquiesce in Germany's contention. ### TWENTY-SEVEN WERE KILLED. 21 Wounded and 114 Are Missing From Suffolk Regiment.

London, Jan. 10. — Little change was apparent yesterday in the position at Colesberg. General French reported to the War Office, Sunday morning, Jan. 7, that he had reconnited with a squadron of the Household Cavalry on the Hoers' east dank, two miles from Achiertang, and drawn a considerable force of the burghers, who, being anxious for their communications with Norvalspont, withdrew.

Landon, Jun. 13.—(4 a.m.)—Gen. Buller's 28 words, announcing his forward movement of Thursday, is interpreted as meaning that he has passed around the western end of the Borer lines at Colenso, and is now several miles behind them and within 14 miles of Gen. White's outposts at Ladysmith. The Boors a few days ago had forces with guns at Spring-field, where Gen. Buller dated his despatch. These commandon have been polynomial distribution of by manneavres, the Boers retiring across the Tugela as General Buller advanced. From General Buller's desputch, coupled with the fact that unoffletal intelligence from the sent of, war has virtually ceased since Monday, the deduction is drawn that important operations are in progress, as he cannot move far without going against the 30cc entreschments.

The death list from enteric fever and dysentery at Ladysmith, averaging from two to ten dilly, are considered more serious than the 240 casualties of Saturday's ight, as they infeate the frightfully inhealthy condition of the beleaguered town. Remarkable seems of patriotism were witnessed in fondon last evening, after a short service held for the volunteers in 8t. Paul's Cathedral. The vast audience was slow to disperse. Ladies stood up on the chairs beckoning and calling on brothers, sons and felends in the ranks, the latter signalling back. A scene of great animation ensued. The organist introduced a few bars of the National Anthem in concluding the volantary. The effect of this was magical. First the volunteers and then the congregation took up the strain, and the vast cathedral was filled with enthusiastic song.

TRYING THE COLONIAL REBELS.

Chiefes of Treason Will be Pressed Against Them at Cape Town.

Cape Town, Wednesday, Jan. 10.

The proceedings for treason instituted against the Dutch colonlas who were taken in arms at Sunnyside, are being pressed. Witnesses have been interrogated to-day, the preliminary examination before the magistrate will be held later, and the trial will be conducted by the Supreme Court.

The Colonial Dutch point out that these prosecutions will serve to make more rebels, as they consider the treatment of the prisoners designed to terrify them. Some Britons regarded the prosecution as impolitie, in view of the fact that the Boers are able to retainte upon the 100 British officers and the 2,500 privates in their hands, and might do so unless all who fight in the Boer ranks are treated as prisoners of war.

The Boers keep up a continuous sniping near Dordrecht. Five colonial scouts were captured on Monday. Lord Roberts and Lord Kitchener were most fervidly received on their arrival at Cape Town.

A STATE OF SUSPENSE.

Situation in South Africa at the Beginning of the Week.

London, Jan. 15. — (4 a.m.) —
The week has opened in a state of Busponse almost equal to that of last week because it is recognized that a failure of General Buller's pretent attempt would seal the fate of Ladysigith.

If the announcement of Gen. Warren's movements be correct, it is evident that Goneral Buller's forces are spread over a very wide front—perhaps 25 miles—and in the event of a sudden fall of the river his operations might be full of danger.

Sir Charles Warren's advance probably means an attempt to seize Hiangwana Hill, the main post of the Boers south of the Togela Tpon the success or failure of these operations depends the whole future of the campaign. Until the result is known, Lord Roberts will be unable to decide how to dispose the two divisions and the reinforcements now abstraction.

A large majority of homes receive their supply of water for about five dollars per year—a figure that surely no person can justly complain of. Compare the present figures with those of twenty years ago, and one would wonder why all the members of the old company did not become millionaires. That they didn't, shows that the expense of operation was very much higher than it is at pressent. I wonder, if the city look over the gas and electric light plant, if the reduction would at all approach the drop in the water-rates. ### Last Friday's Carnival a Success.

The first carnival of the reason was held last Friday in the stating rink and under a misapjachenaon, which, I may say, is widespred. It is quite competent, though, for Chief Justice M-reatth, should no so desire, to resentence Williams to be executed on some other day. All he would have to do would be to have the convict brought before him and tell him that he had altered the date. This has been done in England on several occasions. One. I remember, the change was made because it had been decided in the interval to observe some great national feast on the day set for the execution.

A healthy appetite and common sense are excellent guides to follow in matters of diet, and a mixed diet of grains, fruite and meats is undoubtedly the best.

As compare with grain and vegetables, meat furnishes the most nutriment in a highly concentrated form and is digregled and assimilated more quickly than vegetables and grains. Dr. Julius Remmson, as this subject, says: "Nervous persons, people run down in health and of low vitality, should eat meat and plenty of it. Our conservative friends are on the horns of a dilemma, for they like to have people believe that the fiscal policy introduced by their leaders in 1879 has had a salutary effect upon the fortunes of the people of Canada, but on the other hand they do not like to have it thought that the present highly satisfactory condition of trade and industry is in any way attributable to the changes made in the old conservative tariff by the present liberal administration. In 1876, when times were bad and when the conservatives wanted to get back to power, they convinced thousands of people that a new tariff would make them all rich. In 1900, when times are good and when the conservatives to get back to office, they would fain have the electors believe that the last new tariff was nothing and the policy of the conclusion that the argument is nothing and that political confloversy so carried on only cloaks a greedy seromble for the leaves and fishes. Aut Caesar aut Nullus.. From the oldest of our cities From her ramparts, worn and gray.

From her rampares, worn and gray. Proudly we beheld a thousand Where our contrades went before. When they heard the voices calling Of their kinsmen o'er the sea; "Lend a hand, O brother Britons, Tor a Briton's liberty."

Mother England, we are going Where our comrades went before, For we hear the bugles blowing, Eark! they summon thousands more;

more; Where the old red flag is flying, O'er the dead and e'er the dying— Foes of freedom still defying, As it did in days of yore!

At the rumor of disaster,
At the tidings of retreat,
At the cry of fallen cities
And the clamor of defeat,
Urief the prayer we made to heaven
For the heroes that were gone,
Then from sea to sea we answered;
"Send another legion on?"

Mother England, if you need us, That is all we care to know, Onward into battle lead us, Where the foremost bugles that Onward where the shells are crashin Where the rifle fire is flashing. And the bayenets are dashing O'er the trenches of the foe!

Let the skies above grow darker!
Let there come a sterner fate!
Let the meaner of the nations
Break in flame of savage hyte!
From the hearts of all our women,
From the rifles of our men,
For the honor of the Empire,
Loud shall ring our answer then.

Mother England, we are ready,

Mother England, we are ready, As our comrades were before, For we hear the hugles blowing, Hark! they summon thousands more; Where the old red flag is flying O'er the dead and o'er the dying—Foes of freedom still delying. As it did in days of yore!

A Question of little.

Mr. Hopkins referred to the importance of securing a good title to the half-iero of land leased in 1893 for 99 years from Ope council for cometers purposes. The advisability of getting a special act passed was departed at the preceding annual meeting, but no decision had been arrived at.

Mr. Kuight suggested that the matter might be arranged by arbitration if the question as to legality of title even arose.

Mr. Hopkins—"I suppone we could, but if we decide to erect a wault in the near future the question should be decided beforehind. A special bill will cost from $150 to $200."

Sheriff McLennan—"If the secretary's salary is increased he will have to do all the work."

Mr. Gregory—"I do not expect to receive what the position is worth. A great deal of my time is taken up, and I frequently have to neglect my customers. If the Company, cannot afford to increase the salary, I am willing to work for the present remuneration, or for nothing, if desired."

Mr. Hopkins—"Let us solve the difficulty after the plan adopted by the boy when cutting off the eat's tail—a little at a time. I propose an increase of ten dollars this year."

Mr. Flavelle—"But if the president turns over his work to the secretary's the proposed increase would not be sufficient."

President McLennan—"I have just this to say: if the work done ind been paid for all along at the proper rate, there would not be a cent in the irensury. It's just as I said—if the secretary's salary is increased he will have to do all the work, and I do considerable more then half."

Mr. Hopkins—"Certainly the president cannot be expected to work for nothing; I see no objection to making the salary $50-that will be $35 for the secretary and $15 for the president."

President McLennan—"I have taken a pleasure in the work, and have been willing to serve for nothing."

Wm. O Crossley, Lindsay, says :-'My work on the granolithic walks is very heavy, and requires a good deal of stooping. As a result I have had considerable Backache and Kidney trouble I used a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Back ache Kidney Tablets I got from A. Hig'nhotham's drug store, and they are just the thing. They cured the trouble in short order, and I intend to recommend them to all others suffering in a similar way. They are very easy in action and that is the great point."

TORONTO TO THE FRONT. Splendid Showing Made by Codd's Kidney Pills in Queen Oity. Toronto, Jan. 16.—It is interesting to note that this city, the headquart—

As Dodd's Kidney Pills have since made friends all over the civilized world, this fact is of wide and significant interest, showing that Dodd's Kidney Pills retain their hold on public esteem purely on their tried merits. Alexander Brown, 118 Elizabeth Street, says;—'I have been troubled with Rheumatism for threey ears, also with pains in my back; I have tried several remedies but could not get any relief. Ignace, Mich., Dec. 27th, 1899, aged 47 years.

Sad is the heart of the father, As he sits by the lonely hearth; Never again will he waken That mother who has just left earth.

And yet through the painful silence Ha listens for voice and tread— Then wakes to the awful knowledge That his dear wife is dead.

There in the desolate chamber Is the loved one lying at real, And yet far away from his fireside, Her spirit's in regions blest.

Little had be thought of the moment, So full of sorrow as this, When their children gather round them, Each child for a good-night kiss.

Oh, this is that mother's portion In heaven where she has fled, By angels securely guarded, By angels securely led.

Brood not in sorrow and silence Over the empty nest, Can you not see through the shidow That it is all for the best?

Than earth, and care, and strife,
Better are those within the fold,
Better aternal life.

(Correspondence to The l'ost.)
Regarding the number of the century in which we now are, I would give the following in explanation and illustration of a method used to prove that we are in the 20th century:
"0-1-2-3-4-5-6-7-3-9-10." The cypher represents the starting point of the Christian era and the dashes represent the progress of the year numbered by the figure that follows each. Taking the first dash into consideration, during the time which it is to represent, the date on any document or anything similar would read "This — day of the month — in the year I," and similarly during the time represented by the second dash the date would read "— in the year 2."

Now "in the year 1" stands for the time ending with the completion of the year 1, and "in the year 2," stands for the progress of the 2nd twelve months of the christian era; and therefore "in the year 1900," in which we now are, stands for the twelve menths which end on the 31st of December next, and which end with the century.

It is with sympathetic regret we this week have to chroniole the death of the late Mr. Duncan Grant. ## The Dedication of the Fine Building! Took Place on Sunday.

Great Throng of People in Attendance-Interesting Addresses by the Pastor, Rev. Robt. Johnston, D. D., London, Rev. Messrs. Manning and Marsh, and Mr. James Boxall.

Great interest was evinced Sunday by the members and adherents of St. Andrew's church, and by friends of Sunday school work generally, in the opening of St. Andrew's new Schoolroom—a substantial, bando one and well-planned building, which stands as another monument to the cuterprise and generosity of our citizens of 'hat faith.

zens of 'hat faith.

St. Andrew's Sobbath school has a very large membership, and the need for more and better accommodation made itself felt some years ago. At that time advantage was taken of an opportunity to secure the fine cor-ner lot adjoining the church on the north side, and the decision of the congregation early last year to instal the fine new Cathedral organ recently placed in the church made it necessary to proceed at once with the erection of a schoolroom, as it was seen that the instrument would monopolize much of the limited space then devoted much of the limited space then devoted to Sabbath school purposes, prayer meetings and smaller congregational gatherings. An energetic building committee was appointed, plans submitted by a Hamilton architect were approved, the contract was awarded to Mr. Jus. Thorburn, and the fruition of a long-cherished hope came to pass yesterday, in the dedication of the new building. meetings and smaller congregational gatherings. An energetic building committee was appointed, plans submitted by a Hamilton architect were approved, the contract was awarded to Mr. Jus. Thorburn, and the fruition of a long-cherished hope came to pass yesterday, in the dedication of the new building.

The Morning Service

The morning service was one of unusual interest, and was attended by a large number of citizens. Dr. Johnston chose for his text the words found in Isaiah 53; 3, and portion of the standard school to be some fixed by the personal solicitations of a number of the Sabbath school boys that he should attend the pening of their new school. Mr. Boxall was introduced by Rev. It was night seven of the clock before the senorita appeared. She had slept some, it seemed, though brokenly, and was many times awake. She looked a little worn, which was not surprising, seting what she had been through, but was in moderately good spirits, and this was even better than I had feared, having in mind her state the night before. We made room for her aft, and Mae Ivrach threw off his cont and bestirred himself to prepare breakfast. This consisted of a slab of cold holled beef, some rye bread, a rousted capon, and a little long of grapes. For drick we had wine and a pannikin of hot spiced ale tvery good and grateful to our atomachs), which Mae Ivrach eleverly prepared by unserewing the top of a lanthorn, and so unking a kind of furnace, over which he heated it.

I perceived that I had best let her slove, trusting to time to mend her state, and so nodded kindly and turned

We made the ordinary preparations for the night, and at eight of the clock Mr. Tymest down to the tiller. Upon a little thought we had decided to have no more than two watches, the first continuing to four bells and the other, or morning watch, to eight bells. By this plan the two who stood the watch would have each six hours below and the others the full night. On this occasion it was arranged that the capitalia wan to succeed Mr. Tym.

Toward moon the next day the wind showed signs of failing, but as yet we managed to creep along. As the sun got higher I contrived a little tilt for the senorita, making turd under though and this she thank-ruly silver under the same

Despite my resolution and late renewal of hope, I could not help a little shiring of the spicits at these words. The boat must, of course, eatch us, and how could we hope to contend with her fierce and numerous crew? "We will hold on steadily and yet without tiring ourselves," said the capitaln. "The farther we can draw those fellows from the thip the better, especially slidee the wind may by and by spring up."

This was clearly wise, and we went on to carry out his plan, the bout matern of course continuing to gain. "We had best stop rowing," said Scillager finally. "In fact, i am a bit blown. Unship ones, Mac Ierach, and prepare to put your breath to another purpose."

"It is thin we armed," said Mr. Tym. dim white speck.

I fetched it long, careful look, and was immediately of his mind. The chape, though small, was clear cut and steadfast, and could be nothing clear than the causas of a ship.

Mr. Tym and the captain were forward in the shade of the sail, but now, either perceiving or hearing us, rose and took a look for themselves, and immediately came aft.

"You think it suspicious to raise a sail in that quarter?" I said to the captain. I spoke guardedly, fearing to alarm the senorita.

"Aye," he answered in the same key; "It is all odds that due to come from Panama."

Panama."

"Is it as far wrong as that?" I exclaimed, starting. "I was amplelous of her direction, but no more. But, pray, are you quite persuaded of this? For instance, may she not half from some port farther north?"

"I cannot figure it so," said Sellinger, shaking his head. "We have but just cleared the bay, and this sail fetches fair out of it. There is no port in that quarter save Panama."

"I will obey you, senor," she said, as I faished. "I know that you and your companious are brave and will beat off those cruel men, if it be possible. You would have your weapons, and I will fetch them."

With this—lo my surprise, for I had not thought her such a heroloc—she brought the swords and pistels and handed them to me.

I praised her spirit, and she faintly smiled, lifting her dark eyes for a moment to mine. I helped her from the berth, and as my companions were walting, and this was no time for sentiment, turned back to them with the weapons. Mr. Tym.

to this?" I broke off abruptly. "By to heavens!"

I eried out in this fashion because the mainsheet which I had all the time held with a turn round my hand, of a sudden grew slack, and on looking back I found the sail waving and falling into folds. In our close watch of the ship we had neglected the wind, which had first slowly declined and now was evidently on the point of failing altogether.

My companion instantly caught my meaning.

"Aye, that changes mutter," said Selfinger, with a kindling eye "See, defined the ship begins to lag alrendy."

Of a sudden the bow of the approaching boat began to swing. As the long side gradually opened up the oars were lifted and hung dripping, and the

OF THE END OF OUR DESPERATE FIGHT.

FIGHT.

As for my own personal faring, the first that seemed to happen was that a red-faced man came suddenly before me, and that he clapped his foot on the gunwale of his boat and made a fleree gunwale of his boat and made a fleres shosh at me.

I met the blow with a strong guard, and thereupon, very swiftly stooping. I gave a darting kind of thrust, upon which my weapon was checked somewhere in him and he dropped out of sight. Then a blow—lucklily not heavy—lighted on my headpiece, and the flash and smoke of a pistol shot half blinded me, and the next that comes clear is that I was struggling to free my arm from some one's graup, and that I felt a hard knock on my breast-piece, as though a sword or dagger point had struck there.

I made a full recovery of my senses with that. It was the negro Gabriel who was gripping my sword arm, and he it was who had dealt me the blow (doubtless simed at another spot) that I had taken so luckly on my culrass. No one clae seemed to be striving with me, and indeed the negro himself was between me and most of the objects, he having forced me, it seemed, back toward the rall. There was no time for aught but desperate action. My left side was swung away, and in my left side was swung away, and in my left hand was still my dagger. I had not forgotten a certain trick, learned alongshore, and, without in the least guess my purpose I let fly a low tut powerful kiel. I cannot say whether the shinbones of a negro are of the tenderness that is said, but I do know that Gabriel gave an agonized yell and lustantly released my arm. His hand was already lifted, with his knife in it, but that business went with the pain, and he let go the weapon and ran ducking backward, cradling the leg in his locked fingers. I slayed not find that he showed no more than two or three superficial wounds. The greatest was a cut down one side of his head, which had made considerable blood run and given him his first shocking appearance. sinister attempts, and his pot helmet which lay on the deck, was split in twain at the crest.

I finished my inspection with Mr. Tym, but now with less anxiety, for I had seen in the first hasty glance that he had been but lightly dealt with. A cut across the forehead, which had caused the dripping of blood he had mentloned, but which was manifestly not deep, seemed the extent of his hurts. As soon as might be I meant to ask him how he had managed his deliverance, and in what fashion he had

It was so sharp and absolute a change that for a moment I could scarce make it clear in my mind, and stood staring over the rail. But presently my companions began to speak, and this brought me back to my balance, and I turned again to them. The senorita was coming out of the cuddy, and I clambered over the bodies to her and drew her to a little open space where she could stand.

She was woefully pale, yet seemed in a brave way to control herself, though she broke down for a bit as I steadyingly pressed her hand.

"Praise God, all is over, dear lady." I said. "Yonder are the miserable relies of the foe. It is a time such as I never thought to see and live, but is in the most blessed manner ended. Very quickly we shall ship the oars and be on our way."

on our way."

"Your words seem like an angel's, senor," she said, trying to command her voice. "After all that has happened, I can scarce think or reason. Ah, but it was horrible! The cries and the blows, the scraping of dying men's feet, and the jarring of the falling bedies! And above all was the suspense! Oh, that suspense, senor, and in especial at the last! But I must not think of it, only to thank you—you and your only to thank you—you and your brave companions. You are such he-roes as I believe are not elsewhere in the world!"

"Nay, senorita, you praise us beyond our merits," Lanswered, deprecatingly. (In truth, I felt a thrill of pleasure at her words.) "We did, I grant, make a pretty sturdy fight, but beyond that there is no call for praise. Having un-

DR. BARRIE'S LETTERS

M. C. A Secretary with the Contingent.
From letters received from Dr.
Barrie, who accompanied the first Canadian Contingent to South Africa as Young Men's Christian Association representative, the following facts of interest to the public have ter and higher things. Many tracts were given out and eagerly read by the men. Numbers of books, including Sheldon's and Moody's works, were distributed and circulated. Bibles, French and English, were given away. Marked testiments were distributed, many men coming to the desk enquiring for them. The Frenchmen were delighted to receive copies of the French Testament.

With the co-operation of the chaplains he held gospel song services, with evangelistic addresses on Sunday afternoons and evenings, and also during the week. He held Ribbe classes with the Christian men and enabled them to make a bold stand for Christ. He became the confident of many, and held private persearal conversations on spiritual matters with a large number. The result has been that many backsliders have been reclaimed and a number have professed conversion. So great was the confidence he inspired in the men, that a large number made him the bracker and deposition of their money with hun or commissioned him to secure money orders to send home from the Cape. Some even went the length of asking him to be their executor in case of a fatal termination to this campaign. Some send from the Cope. CHANCE FOR COL, SAM HUGHES

"The one way out of the difficulty between Col. Sam. Bughes, now in South Africa, and the military authorities in this country is to give Colonel Hughes a prominent position in the corps about to be raised by Lord Stratheona. Col. Hughes is quite a favorite with Lord Stratheona, and, as the government is will. ing that he should have a voice in the ing that he should have a voice in the relection of the officers, there is no reason why Col. Hughes should not have a commission in this force. Whatever his political indiscretions are, Col. Col. Bughes may be a favorite with

The trouble is with Sam's military superiors, and with them he must settle the difficulty. We say, if Sam wants to fight give him a chancegive him a horse and a rifle and led him tackle the Boers.

The Ottawa correspondent of The Globe, under date of yesterday, aays: It is known here that Lieut.-Col. Sam Hugh s, who is now in Capel Town, is anxious to secure an appointment on Strutbeona's contingent, and it is not improbable that his wish will be gratified. The valiant Colonel has for well-might two months been in Cape Town, chifing under enforced inactivity. In a letter to a friend a week or so ago Col. Hughes said that Sir Alfred Miller had been and the second of the command of a troop of irregular mounted rifles to be raised in Cape Town, but it is judged from his anxiety to join the Strathcona Holletton Hollschepes. The indications are that if Col. Hughes does not secure an appointment with the Strathcona Horse he will find it impossible to get to the front.

PEOPLE'S RIGHT TO CRITICIZE.

Plain Words Addressed to Eowmanville Council, but Having a Wider Appli cation.

ation.

A the Bowmanville Statesman is no hive been conducted in that town lately, and speaks its mind as follows; The town council is composed of citizens who necept the position of public servants under binding legal and moral obligations to treat every citizen fairly and jutty. Too often, hower, they fancy themselves antocause. d give vent to the content of the content of all pledges to act without ar, favor or a ffection. This actualts for the discredit brought on possition at present. Some who provides above criticism and in the content of the content o themselves above criterism and the insyme dares to say an adverse worke is boycotted and no amount of reasoning can move them to give him fairply. We contend that it is an importative duty resting upon every officer to watch the men entrusted with the transaction of public business, and to know what is being done. They are our servants and should not complair if they are watched and fairly criticised. Indeed, honest men and mon who desire to do right will invite honest criticism of their public actions. While to assist and advise may be better than watching, still it is a duty the people are carcless there are alwaymen who will step in and gain their selfish ends. It is a very great mistale to elect men and ten leave them any be inclined or influenced to do BEET SUGAR.

BEET SUGAR.

There is no reason why Canada should not grow beets and manufac-ture beet sugar. Countries far colder than Canada have succeeded in provid-ing enough of the raw material to make up into sugar for home consump ition as well as export.

In Sweden as well as in Belgium, the duty upon sugar has been raised gereral times, and the home production of sugar benefitted by not inconsiderable concessions in taxation. The beet culture has, in consequence, attained such dimensions in Sweden that at the present day the requirements of the home market can be supplied by the twenty or so sugar factories of the country, although Sweden's sug-ar consumption has nearly doubled with a the last ten years.

with n the last ten years, the last with the last ten years, income the production of beet sugar filst equalled the world's crop of came sugar. It is but twelve years since the came crop for the last time rose to the level of the beet sugar yield of the same year. Yet the annual production of beet sugar is now nearly twice as great as the total crop of came sugar.

That is so remarkable and important a demonstration of the agricultural staples that it cannot be made to conspicuous as on object lesson for Camadian farmers. It is constant proof that the sugar used in Canada and lie produced in our own country instead of being brought mainly from the tropics and from Germany.

OUR LAW-ASIDING NEIGEBORS

Lynching statistics compiled and published by the Chicago Tribune reveal mob murders during the year 1899 only eleven were for the alleged 'unspeak able crime' against women, while six victims were killed merely on suspicion. The crimes for which these persons suffered the extra-judical punishment of death are class-fied as follows: Murder, 44; complicity in murder, 14; assaults on women, 11; alleged assaults on women, 6; bad reputation, 5; arson, 6; race prejudice, 5; robbery, 5; ugknown offences, 4; aiding criminals to escape, 3; suspected of arson, 1; inflammatory language, 1; mistaken ideatity, 1; highway robbery, 1; arson and murder, 1. In no case was the crime legally proved, though in some cases it was no doubt obvious enough. Of the total number, 84 were negroes and 23 whites. The record of the several states were: Georgia, 28; Mississippi, 14; Louisiana, 13; Arkansas, 11; Texas, 8; Alrhama and Florida, 6 each; Tennessee, 4; Kentucky, 3. In the Southern States there were 103 lynchings and only four in the Northern States there were 103 lynchings and only four in the Northern States there were 103 lynchings and only four in the Northern States there were 103 lynchings and only four in the Northern States there were 103 lynchings and only four in the Northern States there were 103 lynchings and only four in the Northern States there were 103 lynchings and the forestight of the excustions does not hold good. It will also be noticed that several persons suffered death for slight of tences and some on the merest suspicion, mistaken identity and simple race prejudice. The only good feature of this glo my record is that it shows a decrease in the number of lynchings. On the other hand, the burning at the stake of negroes in Texas, Georgia and Kentucky indicates increased fercoity in the most been without effect on the people of the South. able crime' against women, while six victims were killed merely on suspi-

Militarism and Patriotism.
(To the Editor of The Post.)
Sir,—The spirit of militarism is arread under the guise of patriotism to a very large degree. That the meaning of these terms is not grasped. meaning of these terms is not grasped, by our youth is evident from the combative disposition of the members of many of our Boys' Brigades,—organized, it is true, to teach our rising generation the principles of Canadian menliness and true patriotism. But that they come far short of the mark is recognized on every hand. The men placed in charge of our boys try to instill patriotism into them by having them don the military suit, carry the treacherous gun and dazzling bayonet; and have them strul up and down the streets with the vanity of peaceoks. Love for conquest pervades the mind, rather than love of country, and the boy of to-day will become the militarist of the future years, whose ambition will be to see his dazzling sword dripping with the blood of his fellow man, rather than the desire to seek his country's highest welfare. Can we say a country is truly prosperous when war is the watchword of its every inhabituat? War brings a stagnation in business to the nations involved, poverly is on all sides, while the national treasury becomes depleted. Let our boys be taught that true patriotism its in the love of une's country for its prosparity and peacefulness; that the sword is not the mighty force behind the nation, but rather good-will to men, for whether was be fluitsh, or Boer, Russian or Chirese, we are all of one kindred and flesh, and the civilization of one nation is within the reach of all through the broader spirit of patriotism, for truly do we love our country and our civitization when we spread its principles throughout all nations that enjoy not its blessings, and in eo doing we sheath the sword and by our spirit of helpfulness show that all men are brothers. — Yours, etc. by our youth is evident from the com-

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JAN. 26th, 1900

A DESERVED HONOR.

It is highly gratifying to us to announce the appointment of Mr. J. R. McNeillie to the office of Clerk and Trassurer for the County of Victoria. The county council, at its opening session Tuesday, conferred

Mr. McNeillie, during his twenty-five years' service under both the former clerk and treasurer—the Hon, S. C. Wood—and recently under the late Mr. Matchett, had carned the approbation and respect of all who had to do business with the county, as well as the public generally. His complete knowledge of municipal law, coupled with a full mastery of the details of county busi ness, placed him, in our opinion, far ahead of any available person for the office of olerk and treasurer.

For several years past, owing to the late Mr. Matchett's declining years, the business of the county has been practically in Mr. McNeillie's hands, and has been performed with a spirit of despatch and eleverness which we are free to say is too seldom found in public officials.

Mr. McNeillie deserved the honor con ferred on him, and the connell could not do other than they did in making him the first officer of the county.

We are simply voicing the general sentiments of approval when we offer Mr. Mc-Neil ie our congratulations on account of the favor shown to him.

THE NATIONAL PATRIOTIC FUND

In the kindly letter accompanying his generous subscription to the Patriotic Fund, Mr. Geo. Matthews briefly shows the necessity of making le provision for the "Missus and the Kids"-for those in any way depaudent on the brave men who have gone to South Africa in connection with the several Canadian Contingents. To impress this view upon the public of this town and county we cannot do better than to reprint the circular issued by Lt.-Col. Irwin, of Ottawa, secretary of the National Patriotic Fund Association of the city of Ottawa, as follows;

city of Ottawa, as follows;

Sir,—I am directed by His Excellency the Governor-General to call your activation to the organization, and is and objects of the Canadian Patriotic Fund Association, under the patronage of Her Majesty the Queen and presidency of His Excellency the Governor-Beneral.

As inner of the hoped-for success of this association in raising funds must depend upon the hearty co-operation of all classes of society with its aims and objects, and as the press of the Dominion has unrivalled facilities for disseminating information, I am directed to express the hope that you will support the movement in the columns of your paper, and take such steps as you may consider most suitable to stimulate public interest, in the most patriotic and national endeavor to raise a fund for the relief of sickness, suffering and destitution which may unfortunately arise from the participation of our contingents in this Imperial effort in the cause of liberty and justice.

The suggestions of His Excellency have been anticinated.

The suggestions of His Excellency have been anticipated in this town, and the opportunity for co-operation its offered in the subscription list announced in other columns. As it is not intended to make a personal can-vass, those who wish to co-operate should send their subscriptions to the places stated and acknowledgment will be duly made.

Don't Gamble.

The daily papers tell of another young man's life blighted and corrow brought home to his family by the gambling curse; the leasons are many; perhaps our very familiarity with such cases makes warnings ineffective. There is a sad sameness in them. A too implicit trust in luck, "borrowing" employers' money, fully intending to replace it, "and nobody will be the wiser," losing again, and again stealwiser," losing again, and again stealing—ugly word—to retrieve the lost funds. What a pity that employers and friends who observe the beginnings of these youths' march penicentiary-wards do not put a faatherly hand out and utter a quiet word of warning and helpfulness when occasion offers? Don't gamble, but if you must venture into the meshes don't commit the crime of gambling with of ther people's money.

The Vacant Offices.

Moved by Mr. Bryons, seconded by Mr. Switzer, that Air. J. R. McNeillie be appointed cierk and treasurer for the county of Viologia, and that the motion be referred to the committee on appaintments to office.

Mr. Bryans spoke briefly in support of his motion, saying that he had no doubt all the rembers of the council deeply deplored the teath of Mr. Matchett, for many years the county's exteemed clerk and treasurer, and who had served the county ably and honestly. They were fortunate in having a man like Mr. McNeillie available, as he had for several years acted as assistant clerk and treasurer, and undoubtedly his appointments to the vacancy would meet with the approval of every member of the council. According to the statutes the Warden was authorized in case of the death of any of the county officials—to fill the vacancy pro tem; he had done that and had also appointed two auditors, and he was pleased to inform the council was adopted without opposition.

Mr. McNeillie in well chosen words thanked the council for appointing him as successor to the late Mr. Matchett as clerk and treasurer for the county for meanty 25 years, and if ever in his life he felt proud it was at that very moment. He prid a high tribute to the late Mr. Matchett, with whom he had been so closely related for many years, not only assisting him in the work here, but also in Omence has well.

Mr. McNeillie was both in Scotland in 1846; his father was a parish-rehool master in Dumfriesshire land afterwards taught school near Glasgow. When about eight years bif age his parents came to Canada, and sattled at Port Graphy, in the township, where his father was appointed teacher, and being very able and efficent, his services were in much demand for years. At the age of thirteen years, thinking he would like to make a start in life for himself, young McNeillie entered a general store and gained considerable business experience, both in selling goods and in the post office connected with the store. In 1861 he removed to Omemee, entering the sorvice of Mr. Matchett, who was then in the drug husiness and was township to the first met Mr. Switzer and Mr. McQuade, also Mr. Jas. Shortly after Mr. McAeillie's removal toLindsay Mr. Wood entered the Ontario government, and Mr. Matchett was appointed in his place. Mr. Matchett was possessed of fine common sense and his judgment could always be trusted. He was a man of large and varied experience, and they were bound together by the closest friend hip. TOHONTO LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, Jan. 24. — The receipts of live stock yesterday amounted to 46 car loads all told, composed of 499 cattle, 2,328 hogs, 378 sheep and lambs and 33 calves. The quality of fat cattle was only medium, few lots of first-class, either butchers' or exporters, being offered. Trade was slow and the market dull, a repetition of Friday last, but if anything prices went still lower. The marprices went still lower. prices went still lower. The market was glutted with old cows and cattle that were about half fat, the result being that prices were as low for this class of cattle as they were at any time last fall.

LECTURE AND BANQUET

Interesting Time at the Salvaties Army

A large crowd gathered at the Salvar on Afmy barracks on Afsesday to bear the lecture on "Matrimonial Maddles," by Staff-Capt. Manton. The tables almost groaned under the weight of good things which were so generously provided by the friends of the Army. After the people had done ample justice to the repast the tables were removed, and the officers and oldiers took their places on the platfrom Omemes, who expressed her do light at being present.

Mr J. B. Walker, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. was then called upon, who made a plearing little speech.

Y. M. C. A. was them called upon, who made a plearing little speech.

After a few preliminary remarks Staff-Capt. Manton then proceeded with his-subject "Matrimonial "Staddes." He stated that matrimony was of divine origin, but too often young people became infatuated by a pratty face or a few hundred foddars and/forget all about its divinity. He urged young men to be sure they loved the one they intended to call their wife, because if they did not their life would he one long combinuous struggle against those things which should tend to make their lives happy. The speaker thought that some women were too domestic and were always negging at their hisbands about the slightest things which would disturb the arrangement in the house. He also thought that certain women should not be called wives because they always presented such an unitdy appearance, especially before their husbands, and it was no wonder that these men would rath repend their evenings where things were more inviting.

Prayer was then offered by Capt.

For years there has been a grow-ing feeling that this county should have an Historical Society. lection and presentation of old records is a duty that cannot be undertaken too soon in every county in Canada, and in our county, where some of the and in our county, where some of the settlers are still living; it is an imperative duty. Y. M. C A Entertainments.

Owing to the dearth of the neual winter entertainments, the Young Men's Christian Association have concluded to place before the citizens a series of chesp ropular con certs. The best local talent obtainable has been secured for the purpose, and it may be safely said that the public will have an op-portunity for enjoyment seldom offered to safely said that the public will have an opportunity for enjoyment seldom offered to them. It is contemplated by the management to provide a course of six of these concerts, the first of which will take place on Tuesday next, Jan. 30th; and thereafter every two weeks until the course is completed. The opening entertainment on Tuesday will be of a general character. Instrumental and vocal music, readings, Gramaphone, etc. The second of the series will be given by Miss Winters' class, and may be expected to be particularly good. It is intended to give the three following entertainments a sort of national flavor—a purely Scotch, succeeded by an Irish, and then an English cencert—being contemplated, the series to wind up with a grand Millitary concert in the Academy of Music. The first five entertainments will be held in the fine parlors of the Association over Black well's blook, which will accommodate comfortably $250 persons. If, however, it is found to be toe small, a larger hall will be secured. The Y.M.C.A. are doing a good work among our young men and boys, which is much appreciated, but this additional effort of the Association to provide clean, enjoyable outertainments for the public, entities them to the special thanks of the citizens.

They attacked him near Foster's lake, pulled tha robes and blanket out of the cutter, and one hungry old fellow fastened his teeth in the collar of his fur coat, but he happened to have a loaded whip with which he belabored them over the head, and in this way he managed to make good his escape. About School Children.

For years The Post has tenaciously held to the opinion that homework for the younger pupils was a decided injury to the child, both mentally and physically. It has also contended that if any change were needed in the hours of study in school, they should be lescened rather than increased. Mr. Edward Bok, in the January number of the Home Journal, takes very strong ground along this line. "No child under fifteen years of age," he says, 'should be given any home study whatever by the teachers. He school have more than from one hour to four of schooling each day, the hours increasing with his years. Outside of school hours he should have at least three hours of play. After fifteen the brain has another period of rapid development, with special increase of the higher faculties. Four hours of schooling, then, is not too much, provided the child's physical being is capable of it, and in time an hour of isolated study may be added. Five hours of brain works a day is the most that we should ask of our children, and the child should pass at least two hours a day in the open air." About School Children

Corporal Punishment in Schools.

The Ringstom News congratulates modern educationists on the passing of corporal punishment as a regular feature of the school routine, but is of opinion that in some cases it may yet be necessary, and prudent teachers should be sustained in enforcing discipline if they have to resort to the rod. There is no doubt much florging used to be done that might under our better methods have been avoided; but it is equally true that granting bad pupils assurance against whipping has in some cases contributed to turning out undisciplined secondrels to afflict society. If parents would second the teachers' efforts and themselves apply the proper remedy for contumery and disobedience teachers' lives would be more pleasant and the rod might well be discarded. But they do not all do so, and a sound strapping laid on where it will do the most good is worth more as a corrective than suspensions and expulsions and expulsions are expecially when the suspended one treats it as a joke and spends his improvements of the property of the second that it is a passion and expulsions are expecially when the suspended one treats it as a joke and spends his implementation of the property of the second that the property of the property of the property of the second that the property of

—At St. Mary's church on Sunday the pastor, Mgr. Lourent, at 10:30 mass delivered an instructive sermon. It being the feast of the Holf Family, he exhorted his hearers to take Jesus, Mary and Joseph as their models. He dwelt on their sufferings, patience and endurance under the most trying circumstances. Parents, especially mothers, should instill into the minds of their children the necessity of prayers and good works, that they might be able to resist the tempetations and allurements of the world, where the teachings of God and his church seem to be forgotten or entirely ignored. He insisted on children obeying their parents, for in this respect our Lord himself set them the example when he went down to Bethiehem and was subject to them. He closed by urging his hearers to profit by the example of the Holy Family and thus secure their salvation.

A large number of friends and acquaintances assembled on Tuesday, evening, Jan. 16th, (the 16th anniversary of the wedding of the groom's parents) at the residence of Mr. Thos Shea, south of Fenelon Falls, to witness the marriage of their daughter, Mary E., to Mr. James L. Byam, merchant, of Cambray. At the appointed time the birde appeared leaning upon the arm of her father Miss Saroh Shea, aced as bridesmald, and Mr. E. Lamb, of Manchester, as groomsman. R.v. R. H. Leitch, assisted by Rev. T. Snowden, performed the ceremony, while the group stood beneath an evergreen festoon. The wedding march was played upon the derived by Mrs. Graham, of Prince Albert. The congratulations and good wishes were very hearty and sincere, as both young people are held in the highest esteem. The presents were numerous, useful and beautiful. ### CATARRH OF THE STOMACH A Fleasant, Simple but Safe and Ef fectual Cure for It. Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to in-curable. The symptoms are a full or curable. The symptoms are a full or bloating sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing, head-aches, fickle appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling. There is often a foul trate in the mouth, coated tongue, and if the interior of the atomach could be seen it would show a stimy, influmed condiment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is excured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Harlanson the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Dinstass, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can be found at all drug stores under the names of Stuart's Dyspepsin (fablets, and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect eafety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher, of 2710 Decarbornet, Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected old in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of the stomach without cure, but to-day I am the happiest man after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feelings. I have found fleeh, appetite and sound rest from their use.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the safest preparation as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

A little booklet on stomach diseases mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

for the Year-Directors' Report.

The annual general meeting of the South Victoria Agricultural Society was held yesterday afternoon in the council chamber. The attendance was very small, but the proceedings were lively from start to finish. The hint thrown out by The Post, that the special attractions feature of the fair should be improved or the attendance would suffer from this on. ance would suffer from this on, brought more townspeople than usu-ally attend the meetings of the So-

How to Improve the Fair.

The chairman invited discussion of various matters which might tend to the improvement of the Central Fair.

Mr. Hopkins thought we should abandon the evening feature of the fair and the fireworks. He thought that there was no money in it, as the attractions in the Opera house usually took the people there. It would be better to rent the Opera house and either shut it up or run it ourselves.

Mr. James Casey, Valentia, did not agree with the preceding speaker. He thought that the money spent in special attractions was thrown away, and might be added to the prize list.

Mr. Spratt thought that a building should be erected on the fair grounds for the attractions. He advocated doubling the amount for the prizes on cattle. He would like if a special demonstrator were engaged to show the people before the grand stand the points of good and por animals. He would like to see a good prize offered for the worst pair of sleers that could be found as an oly ject lesson. The special features were the drawing cards and should be extended.

If good prizes were offered it would tend to better work, and thus benefit the farmers ent others, and prove a special attraction to the fair. Mar. For some reason we were debarked here. I believe the railway was torn up a few miles above, the night before last. A Co. R. C. R. go out on some duty to-day. The health and spirits of all troops are gool. There are, all told, about 5,000 here, comprising infantry, mounted infantry, cavalry, horse artillery and field batteries. Was had a long day of it yesterday—up at 3.30 a.am. and it was 10 p.m. before we got tents pitched here. When just ready to pitch tents a big thunder and rain storm came up. The lightning was very viid. There are arrangements all along the railway for forwarding and feeding the troops. In camp we get Australian frozen beef and mutton, bread, potatoes, etc.; on train, tinned goods and biscuits.

They are building a railroad here—that is—spiking the rails to the ties, but not bolling together. These are sen! forward to repair roads above. News is hard to get. I don't think this is a newspaper campaign. It is pretty hot. Clothes don't seem to make much difference. It is just as cool with drawers and undershirt as without.

"It is an ambring fact that of all bills sent to the family, that of the doctor is in hundreds of families the last one to be puid; and in more cases than it is pleasant to contemplate it is never paid at all," writes Edward Bok in the October Ladies' Home Journal. "I have recently gone to the trouble to make some inquiries into this matter, and have been astonished to find that not one-fourth of the folls sent by doctors are paid with anything like promptness. There is a quickening of the conscience; a simple realization of a proper sense of duty needed in this matter. It is high time, in the case of hundreds of families, that this matter should be brought home to their sense of fairness and justice. And as with them the doctors have for so many years been the last to receive their due in the payment of their bills, it would be only simple justice that hereafter. "The last shall be first." Had there been a keen sheet of ice the game would have proved much swifter, but even this drawback did not deter either team from exerting themselves to the utmost to secure a victory. It is no secret that the visitors came to this city with a determination to wipe out the score which was made against them by our boys in their recent visit to Lindsay. In this they were disappointed, for the Belleville players again demonstrated to a nicety that they are out to win, and placed another victory to their credit.
